TRIES FIVE TIMES TO KILL WIFE

Winthrop Man Cuts Throat After He Pulls Trigger on Every Cartridge. Gun Loaded Wrong

George Gillis tried five times to shoot his wife, Ellen, at their home, No. 538 Shirley street, Winthrop Beach, today; beat her with his fists and a chair when his revolver would not work, then ran down cellar and cut his throat with his razor so deeply he is expected to die.

Jealousy on the part of the husband is believed to have caused his attempt on Mrs. Gillis' life. Only the fact that Gillis had rim-fire cartridges for a centre-fire revolver saved her life.

When Chief of Police Burrill examined Gillis' revolver, he found the centre of each cartridge dented by the centre-pin of the hammer, showing Gillis had pressed the trigger all the way around the five chambers of the weapon.

Wife Struggles With Him.

Gillis pursued his wife through the ground-floor rooms of their house, the woman fighting him away in terror. Mrs. Gillis received several severe blows from her husband's fists and from the chair he wielded against her. But these bruises and the shock to her nervous system comprise the extent of her injuries.

The family includes a son twenty-two years old, and a daughter twenty-four, said to be crippled and confined to her wheel chair.

Little is known about the family at Winthrop Beach for they moved there from No. 856 Broadway, Chelsea, three weeks ago. Gillis is fifty-four years old and his wife a year older. He is a shoe factory operative.

Gillis has been out of work. Yesterday he told his wife he was going to Taunton today to seek work. There was an early breakfast so he could get a good start. Soon after breakfast, before 7 o'clock, Gillis began to quarrel with his wife.

Mrs. Gillis was unable to give Chief Burrill a connected account of what happened, beyond the few facts that her husband tried five times to shoot her and then attacked her with his fists and a chair when the cartridges failed to explode.

Man Slashes Throat.

Suddenly Gillis thrust the revolver back in his pocket and ran down cellar. Neighbors who came in response to Mrs. Gillis' screams telephoned the police.

The first policeman found Gillis almost unconscious from loss of blood. He had slashed his throat with his razor, which he had carried with him. He was sent to Metcalf Hospital, where it was said his recovery was doubtful.

Mrs. Gillis was attended by a physician at the house and remained there, with neighbors caring for her.

She was too agitated to give Chief Burrill a detailed statement, beyond describing the attack in brief and saying that her husband was jealous without cause.

Roosevelt Beat Taft for Maine Delegates

In a Close Fight the Colonel's Forces Defeat the President's by 152 to 144.

PORTLAND, April 3.—Colonel Roosevelt beat President Taft in the first fight for delegates to the National Convention in this State.

In the First District Republican convention held in this city today for the selection of two delegates to the Republican National Convention the Roosevelt candidates won. But it was by a narrow margin. This was the vote:

Roosevelt, 152.

Taft, 144.

The result was in doubt up to the time the last ballot was counted and both sides claimed victory.

The Roosevelt delegates are Frank M. Low of Portland and Gilman N. Deering of Saco. The Taft candidates were Arthur H. Moulton of Portland and Fred J. Allen of Sanford.

Williams Removes Name as Delegate

Pledged to Foss With Others, Will Run Only for "People's Preference."

A formal withdrawal of the name of George Fred Williams as one of the eight candidates picked by the Democratic State committee for delegate-at-large to the Baltimore convention pledged to Governor Foss was filed with the Secretary of State today. Mr. Williams declines to permit his name to appear on the ballot under any designation other than "For the People's Primary Preference without Machine Dictation." The Secretary, under the law, is obliged to recognize such a withdrawal. Mr. Williams' letter to the Secretary is as follows:

A. P. Langtry, Esq.,
Secretary of the Commonwealth,
State House, Boston.

My Dear Sir:

I am informed that nomination papers have been filed with the office of the Secretary of State in which my name appears together with seven other candidates under the designation of "Pledged to Governor Eugene N. Foss for President." The only papers which I have authorized to be filed are entitled, "For the People's Primary Preference Without Machine Dictation," and I desire my name to stand only under such designation. I therefore withdraw my name from nomination on the paper first above designated by this request in writing signed by me, acknowledged before a Justice of the Peace, which I now file with you as the officer with whom the nomination was filed, in accordance with section 180 of chapter 560 of the Acts of 1907 which I believe is applicable thereto.

Obediently yours,
(Signed)
GEORGE FRED WILLIAMS.

Woman Sues for $100,000

Ella J. Galletly Asserts S. F. Van Choate Promised to Leave Her $50,000.

Ella J. Galletly of Malden filed a civil suit for $100,000 at East Cambridge today against Georgianna C. Van Choate of Sharon as administratrix of the estate of Sylvanus F. Van Choate of Boston, who died March 29, 1910.

The plaintiff says Van Choate promised to give her or leave her $50,000 for nursing, care and attendance during the closing years of his life. She also asserts Van Choate boarded with her 156 weeks at $15 a week, and seeks $2,340 for that.

The suit, an action of contract, was entered in the office of the clerk of the Middlesex Superior Court at East Cambridge, as the plaintiff lives in Malden. Her attorneys were Warren and Burt and Herbert A. Palmer, all of No. 50 Congress street, Boston.

Two counts are cited in the declaration. The first deals with the assertion that the plaintiff took Van Choate to board at her home for three years up to his death, with the understanding that she was to receive $50,000 for attending and nursing him.

The second count comprises the bill of $2,340 for board.

The plaintiff declares neither the $50,000 for nursing and attendance nor the $2,340 for board have been paid.

JOHN BURROWS, 75, HALE AND HEARTY

NEW YORK, April 3.—John Burrows, the famous naturalist, born April 3, 1837, has sent the following greeting to friends from Pelham: "My seventy-fifth birthday finds me in good heart and health, my interest in life unabated and with more work to my credit for the past year than for any other year of my life. JOHN BURROWS."

WEIL CASE STRANGELY STOPPED

Juror Whispers to Judge in Trial of Broker--Mysterious Conferences Among Officials Follow

The trial of Victor M. Weil, the Boston stock dealer, for alleged use of the mails in a scheme to defraud, was suddenly interrupted in the United States District Court today by Joseph Kelly, a juror, stepping over and speaking in low tones to Judge Dodge.

From that time on, the rest of the morning was given to a series of mysterious conferences between the judge, representatives of the government, counsel for the accused and the juror. The trial was suspended and the jurors, except Kelly, were sent to the jury room.

Weil, the defendant, meanwhile, was pacing one of the corridors.

The jury was called in as usual today. Spectators were waiting for the day's session to open. Judge Dodge came in and was seated at the bench with the usual formalities.

Suddenly Juror Kelly rose, crossed over and whispered to Judge Dodge. The jury was hastily directed to retire to the jury room on the floor above.

Then Judge Dodge and Kelly went to the judge's lobby. They were followed by Assistant United States District Attorneys Garland and Sullivan and by Messrs. Ham and Feeney, counsel for Weil. There was a fifteen-minute talk in the lobby.

Then Garland and Sullivan came out and hurried to the office of United States District Attorney Asa P. French. They were gone an hour. Meanwhile Kelly rejoined his fellow jurors. Judge Dodge remained in his lobby. Spectators stayed in their seats and wondered what was up. Weil remained in the corridor.

Garland and Sullivan returned to the court room at 11:30 and went immediately to Judge Dodge's lobby. The two attorneys for Weil joined them. A messenger was sent up stairs for Juror Kelly, who came down hurriedly.

MISS PANKHURST, WITH BAG FULL OF MONEY, SAILS AWAY

NEW YORK, April 3.—Miss Sylvia Pankhurst, whose mother, Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, is now in an English prison for breaking shop windows for the suffragette cause, sailed for home on the Mauretania today.

Miss Pankhurst, who has been on a lecture tour in the Eastern States and Canada since January 1 last, held a midnight reception in her stateroom surrounded by a number of suffragettes.

Miss Pankhurst is taking several thousand dollars back to England which she made on her lecture tour. The money will be devoted to suffrage work in London.

John E. Parsons, who has been on trial in the sugar case in the United States District Court for the past six or seven weeks, and in whose case the jury failed to agree after being out over 13 hours Saturday night, was also a passenger on the Mauretania.

FAIL IN ATTEMPT TO ASSASSINATE VICE-PRESIDENT LI

TIEN TSIN, April 3.—An attempt was made today to assassinate General Li Yuan Heng, Vice-President of the republic. General Li was badly wounded. The message received did not say whether General Li was attacked in Pekin or Nanking.

TIENTSIN, April 3.—An attempt was made today to assassinate General Chao Erh-Hsun, viceroy of Manchuria, in Mukden, according to a message from there. Two shots were fired at the viceroy as he was entering his yamen. No arrests were made. The authorities believe the conspiracy was instigated by Manchus because of General Chao's activity for the preservation of the peace organization.

WORLD'S RECORD FOR BROCKTON COW

BROCKTON, April 3.—Cream Ella Vale, one of the high-bred Holstein cows at the F. F. Field Company's Dutchland Farms, holds what is claimed to be the world's record for milk production. In a test covering four months and sixteen days, 1,308.03 pounds of milk were produced, which is considerably in the lead of the previous world's record, formerly held by another Dutchland farm cow. Expert Clayton Gastill of the State Agricultural College at Amherst conducted the test.

QUINCY POLICEMAN WINS SLANDER SUIT

John F. Phillips of the Quincy police force won $100 damages in his suit against Mrs. Margaret F. Merriam of Centre road, Hough's Neck, in the Quincy District Court today. Phillips sued for $300 for slander. He declared Mrs. Merriam circulated false stories about him.

Doctor Brings Back Bride from Lisbon

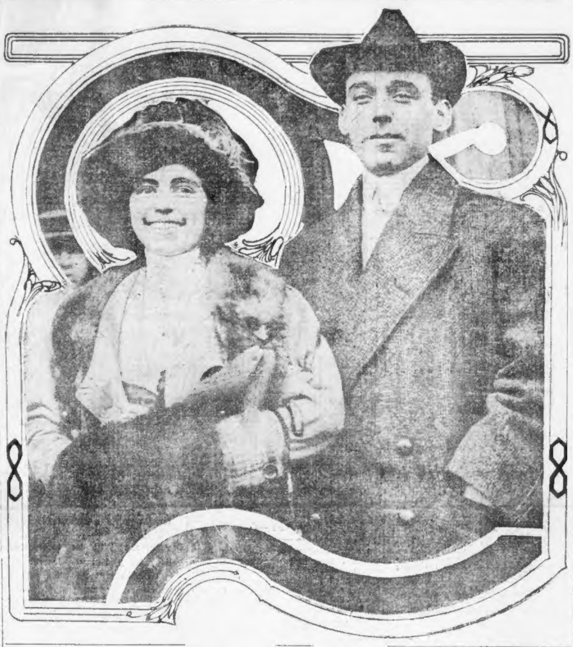
Young Physician in Boyhood Romance

DR. A. J. TAVEIRA OF NEW BEDFORD AND THE BRIDE HE BROUGHT FROM LISBON



Couple Arrive on the Cretic—Maria Pampari, Opera Singer, Also on the Steamship.

A pretty romance came to light today when the White Star Liner Cretic, from Italian ports and the Azores, came into port. Among the saloon passengers were Dr. A. J. Taveira, a young New Bedford physician, and his bride, a Lisbon girl.

The doctor, who is a graduate of the Maryland Medical College, went abroad about four months ago to visit his mother in Lisbon, Portugal. He had no thoughts of marrying when he left this country, but while staying with his mother he met Camilla Casais La Rosa, a girl whom he had known in his boyhood days in Portugal. He fell in love with her. He wooed and won her and brought her back to America as his wife.

Another saloon passenger was Mrs. Maria Zerga, with her baby. She is known to the public as Maria Pampari and is an opera singer. Her boy was born a short time ago at Milan, Italy. Both mother and child were popular among the passengers, and they called the baby "Jack."

City Clerk Priest Dead at His Home

Veteran of Civil War and Served the City Under Both Republicans and Democrats.

John T. Priest, city clerk, died today at his home, No. 76 Homestead street, Roxbury. He was sixty-nine years old.

Mr. Priest died after an illness of several years which had kept him from his duties at City Hall much of the time. Death was due to a general breakdown. Mrs. Priest and his son were at his bedside when he died.

Mr. Priest became city clerk in 1908. He had been assistant city clerk ever since 1874, when Charlestown was annexed to Boston. From January, 1866, to 1871, Mr. Priest was clerk of the Charlestown Common Council, and for the three years prior to the annexation to Boston was city clerk of Charlestown, having succeeded Daniel Williams, who resigned to become clerk of the Charlestown Court.

As assistant city clerk Mr. Priest served under Democrats and Republicans alike. From 1874 to 1883 he served under Samuel F. McCleary, and then he served two years each under Fred E. Goodrich, A. N. Sampson, Hon. Joseph H. O'Neil and Hon. Edwin U. Curtis. For nearly nine years he was the first assistant of City Clerk J. Mitchel Galvin, and for nearly eight years was the right hand man for the late Mr. Donovan.

Although having held a city position for so many years, Mr. Priest has never been a participant in party politics. He was born in Acton, Mass., March 13, 1843, but at the age of six years moved to Boston, where he resided until twelve years old. His folks then moved to Charlestown, and it was there that he received most of his education, graduating from the Charlestown High School in 1860.

Mr. Priest was a Civil War veteran and participated in many of the more important battles of the three years he saw service. As a member of the Thirty-sixth Massachusetts Regiment he fought at Fredericksburg, Vicksburg, Jackson, Miss., Blue Springs, East Tennessee, Campbell Station, siege of Knoxville, the Wilderness, Spottsylvania Court House, North Anna River and Cold Harbor, where he lost a leg and was in the hospital for many weeks.

Mr. Priest was prominent in Masonic circles, being a Knight Templar, a member of Post 11 of the G. A. R., of the G. A. R. Club of Massachusetts, a past dictator of the Knights of Honor and a member of the Ancient Order of United Workmen and the Roxbury Historical and Military Society.

DISCUSS PLANS TO DISBAR GANS FOR BRANDT CASE WORK

NEW YORK, April 3.—Attorney-General Carmody will come to New York from Albany today to confer with District Attorney Whitman concerning the proposed investigation to determine whether Howard S. Gans, the Schiff lawyer, should be disbarred because of his connection with the Brandt case.

Gans was retained by Mortimer L. Schiff, originally, to have the former Schiff servant sent to prison. Evidence more recently was disclosed that Gans worked almost since Brandt's commitment to keep him in prison.

EATS HER GOAT TO AVOID LICENSE FEE

NEW YORK, April 3.—Magistrate Naumer, sitting in the Coney Island Police Court, "got the goat" of twenty goat owners when he had them arraigned before him charging them with keeping goats without a goat license. Coney Island property owners accused the goats of eating everything from railroad iron to the week's wash.

When Mrs. Josephine Respio of No. 135 Sixty-fifth street was arraigned, she began:

"Your Honor, I had a goat, a little kid billy goat. The policeman told me I had to have a license to keep my goat, but I told him I guessed that was too much red tape. So I killed the goat and ate him. I didn't need the license for that. I don't think I belong here, do I?"

The magistrate said he didn't think she did. Then he adjourned the other cases until April 15.

OUTLAW GANG IS CAPTURED ON CRETIC

Chief Watts, Acting on Tip from Italy, Rounds Up Men Supposed to Be Most Desperate Bandits

Twenty-seven Italians, said to be the worst "black hand" men of Italy, were arrested today at this port on board the Cretic, following the arrival of that vessel here.

The arrests were made by nine police inspectors, upon information that was received by Chief Watts from Naples by cable.

The first search of the ship resulted in no arrests. A second search was made after the passengers were landed.

Were Stowaways.

The twenty-seven men were found down in the hold of the vessel, jammed together in a locker.

The information that came to Chief Watts was to the effect that the men had been secreted on the ship by some one connected with the vessel. The names of those who connived at bringing the desperate band to this country were not mentioned.

The liner steamed into Quarantine today from Italy and the Azores shortly after daylight. She was boarded here by Health Officer F. X. Crawford, and also by about twenty immigration and customs officials and newspaper men.

Immigration Commissioner George B. Billings immediately detailed one of his men to search the life boats for stowaways. This is a favorite hiding place and, while the ship steamed up the harbor, the covers of all the boats were lifted.

Patrolman Thomas Donahue, while detailed to watch the crowds at the White Star dock, arrested Angelo Riccaire, No. 88 Prince street, on a charge of picking the pockets of Joseph Nosilia and stealing $28. The Italians in the crowd were much excited.

SUES FOR ALLEGED HURTS BY HORSE

Alleging serious injuries to his legs as a result of a mauling administered by Jumbo, a horse owned by the Highland Coal Company of Somerville, Ernest E. Beck, also of Somerville, has entered suit in the East Cambridge Court against the owner of the animal, claiming damages in $2,000. As he is a minor, Beck is suing through his father, John J. Beck. The plaintiff, through his parents, alleges that he was employed by the Highland Coal Company in 1911 and entered the stable where Jumbo was kept, to feed him. The animal became fractious and Becks legs suffered.

MINISTER PICTURES MARIANO AS A VICTIM

By ANGELA MORGAN.

Never has a crime been committed in this State which has so roused its leaders of social reform as the slaying of William Mather by thirteen-year-old Antonio Mariano.

Ministers, club women, criminologists and workers in all branches of sociological endeavor are asking, "What is to be done about it? How are we to prevent such crimes? What can the State do toward stamping out such evil?"

Rev. Frank H. Decker, of Providence, whose work at the Church House on Fountain street has made him conspicious in social reform, goes to the root of the matter. In the vigorous interview which he granted me today, Mr. Decker strikes out boldly, fearlessly, at the real causes, tells why it is the State is burdened by its youthful criminals; and what is the cure for the Antonio Marianos who menace society. He said:

"Society Shudders."

When a terrible crime like this sends its shock throughout the community, society shudders, covers its eyes and cries, "How dreadful—we must not think of it!" But here is where society grievously sins. The fact is, we MUST think of it. The time has come when we can no longer ignore a problem which casts so huge a shadow, one which menaces the very life of State and home. We must grapple with it face to face, here and now.

At such a time as this, I wish I had the gift of a burning pen. Nothing could be more momentous than this case of the Mariano boy, and if I were a writer, it seems to me I would take this boy and a text and write a sermon which would shake society out of its lethargy and show it what its own responsibility is toward such as he.

Heads Novel Institution.

The institution of which Mr. Decker is superintendent ranks as one of the most remarkable in modern reform. It is one of the few that unites Catholic, Protestant and Jew on its board of directors. It has the approval and support of such men as President W. H. P. Faunce, Mayor Fletcher and numerous clergymen and workers.

I found the Rev. Mr. Decker in his office at the Church House, pressed on all sides by duties and calls from the crowd of unfortunates seeking his help. Outside the door, men were lined up waiting for a word with him; homeless men, hungry men, despondent men.

These are the kind of men with whom Mr. Decker successfully deals. He understands them, and it is with such solid understanding he discusses the case of Antonio Mariano. He said:

To begin with, in order to deal with this case at all, we must go back of the appearance to the cause. This is not an individual but a social matter. The fault is not with the seed, but the soil. When a crime like this is committed we are too apt to think of the perpetrator as the one central fact; are too prone to cast all the blame upon him. The whole question becomes that of the boy who did the deed and of the State that punishes him. This is all wrong.

Here we have a very great crime. Here is a boy apparently so depraved, so devoid of human feeling, that he fails even to glimpse the enormity of his offence against his victim, against himself and humankind. We call him a monster; we say society should be rid of him.

Society's Responsibility.

But what of society's responsibility in his guilt? What of the State's share in his crime? When the State punishes him, does it, can it, believe that its responsibility ends here?

Who is the actual slayer of Willie Mather? Who was it that really struck the blow that killed him? Was it indeed this thirteen-year-old youth, this unfortunate child of unwholesome living conditions?

Not at all. Antonio Mariano was merely the instrument for this crime; he was not the real actor. It was conditions that really struck the blow; i was conditions that performed the crime, using only as a tool this weak, unhappy youth.

Before we can analyze the case at all, we must go back to the beginning. We must go back to Antonio to Antonio's parents, and back of them to the environment in which they developed. We must go back, even further back than that. It is doubtful if one can know just where to draw the line for responsibility in this case and others like it.

But certain it is that we must ask questions, if we are to see the problem in its true perspective. Here are some of the questions we must ask:

What Influenced Boy?

What of the social conditions which produced him?

What of the home in which he was born and reared?

Did he have room and cleanliness and a chance to grow in wholesomeness and strength? Or was he crowded into close quarters with many others, thrown straight into temptations which he was powerless to ignore??

Did he have moral training? Did he have guidance?

How about his parents and his home life?

Was his mother too hard worked, too burdened to give him the time and attention which is childhood's due?

Antonio Mariano is a victim, rather than a monster. He is the victim of social conditions far more powerful than he. If we are to do away with crime, it is these conditions we must grapple with and conquer. We must not hesitate to take them by the throat and face them.

Here is a boy who has not had a chance. Before we can judge any individual whatsoever we must at least be certain he has had his chance.

Before we can hope to cure, we must prevent. This crime, which has so shaken the community, is one that should prove a powerful factor in ameliorating the conditions that gave it birth.

We are horrified, yes! We are shocked. We are filled with apprehension for the safety of our homes, for the welfare of our children. If so, then let us act. Let us not rest until we wipe out these causes, until we change the soil in which the young must grow.

LIFE INSURANCE COMPANIES

They Are Closely Observing Public Health Conditions

An examining physician for one of the prominent Life Insurance Companies, in an interview on the subject, made the astonishing statement that the reason why so many applicants for insurance are rejected is because kidney trouble is so common to the American people, and the large majority of applicants do not even suspect that they have the disease.

He states that judging from his own experience and reports from druggists who are constantly in direct touch with the public, there is one preparation that has probably been more successful in relieving and curing these diseases than any remedy known. The mild and healing influence of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its remarkable record of cures.

We find that Swamp-Root is strictly an herbal compound and we would advise our readers who feel in need of such a remedy to give it a trial. It is on sale at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes—fifty-cents and one-dollar.

However, if you wish first to test its wonderful merits, send to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle, absolutely free. When writing be sure and mention the Boston Daily American.

Act in Child Dancer's Case

Manager Must Face Court

GRACE MAGUIRE, CHILD DANCER IN LYNN ACTION.

Morison of Lynn Charged With Violating Law in Letting Girl Appear.

Lindsay Morison, lessee of the Auditorium Theatre in Lynn, today was summoned to appear in court Saturday, charged with violating the law by permitting Grace Maguire, less than fourteen years old, to appear in his theatre in the week beginning March 15. The complainant is State Detective Richard Bryer, who stopped the appearance of the girl after two performances. The little girl, who did a dance, lives with her parents at No. 39 Somerset street, Boston. The penalty for a violation of the law is a fine of not more than $300 or imprisonment for not longer than six months, or both.

PROF. WETZEL, WHO WEIGHED EARTH, TO PUT SUN ON SCALES

NEW YORK, April 3.—Professor Reinhard F. Wetzel, of the College of the City of New York, who has discovered the weight of the earth to be 7,000,000,000,000 tons, has a wonderfully delicate instrument by which he hopes to weigh the sun, the moon and the planets. The professor's theory is that in order to ascertain the weight of planetary bodies it is only necessary to find the force of attraction between any two bodies of known size. To discover this force he connected two small silver balls by a steel wire. He fashioned a framework at the base holding two lead balls, which are moved back and forth together with the silver balls. Each time the silver balls swing toward the lead ones a mirror shows the angle of attraction on the scale several feet away. Calculations do the rest.

ZEPPELIN BALLOON CARRIED OVER SEA

DRESDEN, Germany, April 3.—After having lost three days, the large balloon Count Zeppelin, which made an ascent on March 31, carrying three Danish army officers, descended at Stralsund, Pomerania. The officers told a thrilling story of their trip, and said they had been carried over both the North Sea and the Baltic Sea by the gale that drove them before it. The balloon will enter the elimination contests on April 25 for the international balloon cup race, carrying the officers who returned in it today.

Reichstag Stirred Over the Panama Row

Government Will Be Interpellated Regarding Kaiser's Interview About Fortification.

BERLIN, April 3.—The government is to be interpellated in the Reichstag on the Goethals-Kaiser controversy over what Emperor William really said about the United States fortifying the Panama Canal, while Goethals was the Emperor's guest at a private luncheon at the palace. This was learned today from a semi-official source. The incident is causing extreme embarrassment to the foreign office and to the United States Embassy, presided over by Ambassador Leishman.

The government will be asked how far responsibility lies with Count von Bernstorff, German Ambassador to Washington, for Colonel Goethal's visit, it being understood here that the German Ambassador was mainly responsible for the meeting between the Emperor and the United States army engineer.

FOLLOWING NEW MATHER CLEW

PROVIDENCE, April 3.—A new and startling turn was given today to the investigation into the death of William Mather, slain on Moses Angell Hill, and for which Antonio Mariano is held by the police, when Medical Examiner Charles A. Barnard said. It would seem impossible that any boy the size of the one under arrest could have alone committed the crime.

Mrs. William Mather, mother of the dead boy, takes the same point of view, basing her belief that at least two persons were concerned in the crime, not so much on medical knowledge, as upon the stories she has heard among the boy's playmates.

Dr. Barnard's testimony will probably be given when the inquest is resumed today.

Mariano's claim that a rock dislodged by his foot accidentally killed his schoolmate is disputed by the medical examiner.

Dr. Barnard declares that it would have been a physical impossibility for a missile falling from above to have inflicted the ugly compound fracture which he found at the base of the Mather boy's skull. Although there were five other wounds, that was the only fatal one.

He differs from the police hypothesis in some respects and asserts that even the confession of the boy has not fully dispelled the idea that an adult may have committed the crime.

In a highly interesting and significant statement Dr. Barnard shows, as a medical expert, how it would have been difficult for a boy the size of the accused, to wield in the manner alleged, the rock which he and the police agree was the only weapon used. Dr. Barnard suggests that if Tony Mariano did it he may have been assisted by another boy.

The medical examiner makes clear that he does not wish to oppose or discourage the theory accepted by the authorities, but wishes merely to offer the ideas for what they are worth.

MISS DONOVAN, STABBING VICTIM, IS LAID TO REST

The funeral of Miss Ellen Donovan, the seventeen-year-old South Boston girl who was stabbed with a pen knife by her father at her home, No. 433 East Sixth street, that district, Saturday night and who died a few hours later at the Carney Hospital, was held today. There was a solemn high mass of requiem at SS. Peter and Paul's Church at 9 a. m. Burial was at Calvary Cemetery. Six little girl classmates and friends acted as pallbearers.

CHICAGO THEATRE TO RUN 24 HOURS A DAY

CHICAGO, April 3.—Jones, Rennick & Schaffer have opened the first twenty-four-hour theatre in the world here. It is known as the Lyric, and is at Van Buren and State streets. GRISCOM BETTER AFTER OPERATION

PHILADELPHIA, April 3.—Lloyd C. Griscom, former Ambassador to Italy, who was operated upon for stomach trouble in Byrn Mawr Hospital, is reported to be doing as well as could be expected today. The physicians and the family of Mr. Griscom refused to tell the nature of the operation. Some persons declared it to have been for appendicitis, while others say the ailment is cancer of the stomach.

LODGE BARES JAPAN'S PLAN

which it had taken. Then comes the investigation of the commission.

"Ought Not to Be Arbitrated."

"Under the general principles of international law, the power would have a perfect right to secure that land by purchase or treaty. The only bar that we could plead to their doing so would be that the action of the foreign power threatened our safety and violated our settled policy; that is, the Monroe Doctrine.

"What chance do you think the Monroe Doctrine would have before a commission made up in part of persons not Americans? The Monroe Doctrine is not international law. It is the policy of the United States, declared after ample consideration as essential to its safety, and the strength of the doctrine is exactly that of the United States and of its navy.

"Suppose the commission decided that it was an arbitrable question. Do you suppose the American people would arbitrate it? I do not, and I do not think it ought to be arbitrated. We should decline to arbitrate it, and the treaty would be disregarded, with all the unpleasant consequences which a disregard of treaty obligations always involves."

Commenting on the Lodge resolution, Senator Perkins of California said:

"There seems to be no doubt that a Japanese concern at San Francisco, acting for the Japanese government, has purchased large holdings of land in the vicinity of Magdalena Bay from Mexico. This, of course, constitutes a flagrant violation of the Monroe Doctrine, and calls for immediate action on the part of the United States.

"Even if Japanese private interests should make such purchases in Mexico for the purposes of colonization, it would be contrary to the spirit of the agreement now existing between Japan and the United States and would call for equally prompt action from this government."

Said Senator Ashurst of Arizona:

"I do not know anything about recent developments at Magdalena Bay, but it is a matter of common knowledge in Arizona that Japanese are quietly, cautiously and steadily creeping into Mexico."

Senator Mark Smith of Arizona said:

"Most Americans have been too busy getting out of Mexico to pay much attention to what is going on at Magdalena Bay, but the United States cannot permit the Japanese or any other foreign nation to obtain a foothold in Mexico. If the reported situation at Magdalena Bay exists, I am in favor of vigorous action by the United States."

The fact that negotiations were in progress for the purchase of this vast tract by a Japanese syndicate for the purpose of establishing a great colony, where it would be a direct menace to the United States, was laid before the Department of State by the AMERICAN two months ago.

The State Department admitted knowing that such a deal was on. It gave positive assurance, however, that if the Japanese government was interested, the deal would be blocked immediately.

Following a meeting of the Cabinet an ultimatum has been served on President Madero, demanding that he give adequate protection to the railway line between Vera Cruz and Mexico City, so that arms and ammunition due today can be delivered to American citizens in the capital.

Austin in Terror of New Flood Peril

AUSTIN, Pa., April 3.—Terror struck into the hearts of this devastated valley early this morning when water began to pour over the spillway of the twenty-four foot timber dam owned by the Bayless Pulp and Paper Company two miles above the town.

In wild alarm the majority of the nine hundred citizens who have eked out an existence here since the dam disaster of September 30 last, which cost eighty lives, began flocking to the hills.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—Vast devastation is imminent in the Mississippi Valley. The river will continue to rise for five days and will remain flooded for three weeks, according to a prediction made by the forecaster of the United States Weather Bureau today. The river at Cairo will go to fifty-four feet before night. At St. Louis the highest mark so far is 29.8 feet today; at Memphis it will reach forty-four feet before night. At Natchez the waters stand at 45.1. At Vicksburg 46.5. At Baton Rouge 33.1 and at New Orleans 16.5. The river will continue to rise at all these points.

NEW ORLEANS, April 3.—Reports from up the Mississippi today indicate that at least a score of lives have been lost in the flood. The highlands shelter hordes of refugees who are suffering for food and clothing.

HICKMAN, Ky., April 3.—Three men drowned when an Illinois Central engine sent out to test the tracks dropped into a fifty-foot crevasse south of Fulton, Ky., today are the first victims in this section of the flood that has swept the Mississippi valley and inundated scores of towns and villages along its banks.

Sole Woman Voter Gets One Lone Vote

Lenox Wondering Who Cast That Ballot for Miss Heloise Meyer for School Board.

LENOX, April 3.—Who cast the one solitary vote Miss Heloise Meyer of Boston and Lenox, received for the School Committee? This is what Lenox wants to know today.

Miss Meyer was the only woman voter at the polls for the committee, and when the returns were posted Miss Meyer had one vote and Maurice J. Roche, indorsed by both parties, had 360.

Miss Meyer went to Lenox, where she owns property, from Boston to vote, and she and Henry Fong, a registered Chinese, attracted attention when they appeared. Lenox friends of Miss Meyer hint that she will be a candidate for the School Committee next year.

Young Alsop Defends Father

Rumors Nonsense, He Says

Old Man Soon to Visit Bride

MRS. EFFIE HILL ALSOP

Harold Alsop Says Mother-in-Law Knew of Money Matters Before Wedding.

Although Harold P. U. Alsop, a Harvard junior, and one of the two sons to whom Edward B. Alsop left real state, valued at over $3,000,000, denies there was an estrangement between his seventy-five-year-old father and his two months' bride of nineteen, New York despatches today declare that Mrs. Alsop's mother intends to retain a lawyer.

Mrs. John J. Hill, young Mrs. Alsop's parent, insisted the couple were not estranged, but added:

"I cannot understand Mr. Alsop's action. It looks to me as if he had transferred his entire estate to his sons. I certainly believe that his wife should be entitled to some of it.

"I wrote today to my brother, who is an attorney in Georgia, and asked his advice regarding the matter. It may be necessary to retain an attorney in New York to look after my daughter's interests. It is not true that Effie and her husband were estranged. Effie took cold soon after her marriage and had a narrow escape from pneumonia. That is why she went to a sanitarium."

Son Explains Case.

Harold Alsop said that the leaving of the property to him and his younger brother Edward H. Alsop, was not a surprise to their pretty stepmother, as it had all been arranged before the marriage took place in New York on February 15.

The elder brother was found in his luxurious quarters in Westmorley Hall. He is twenty-two, tall and has a business appearance about him. He was asked what he proposed to do with the fortune that had been left to him and his brother.

"That's a rather peculiar question to ask anybody, but I will answer it the best I can," he replied. "I will finish my studies at Harvard this year, thus finishing the four years' course in three years.

"Immediately after I get through this June I shall go to Europe and shall spend the year visiting different countries, more as a rest than anything else after some hard study here at Harvard.

"When I return home I shall study law and although I have not decided as to which institution I shall attend it will probably be Columbia.

Will Guard Money.

"I am not going to study law to take it up as a profession, but more as a protection for myself—a protection for the property that my father has accumulated.

"There are so many schemers and sharpers around at this time who are eager to get other people's money easily that I think it is well for any young man with property to study law.

"I do not have anything in mind at present in which I shall invest or to which I shall devote my money. In fact the care of the real estate in which my father's money is already invested will require all the attention of my brother and myself when we finish college."

"How did your father accumulate his fortune?" was asked.

"He just invested wisely and watched it multiply," replied the young man with a smile.

"I shall devote all my time to my father's business," resumed the young man. Then he began of his own volition to discuss his father's marriage.

"I wish to make it plain at this time," he said, "that there is no estrangement whatever between my father and his young bride. A further proof of this is the fact that my father is to visit his wife in the sanatorium in Connecticut where she is at present.

Discusses Marriage.

"My stepmother went there herself to rest from a slight nervous trouble. This talk about the bride being indignant because my father's property was placed in the care of my brother and myself is absolutely foolish, for the reason that arrangements of this kind were known a long time before the marriage took place."

Flowery Sea Wall to Adorn Newport

Mr. and Mrs. Marsden J. Perry Will Plant Five Acres of Rhododendrons at Shore.

NEWPORT, April 3.—Newport will offer a new and beautiful greeting this Summer to travellers coming in from the sea. It will be the greeting of flowers.

Along the ocean at the outer harbor entrance will be five acres of rhododendrons. The idea was conceived and will be executed by Mr. and Mrs. Marsden J. Perry of Providence, who own the large estate, Bleak House. The plants will be brought from the South in a special train and will be planted on the sea brink of the estate.

Landscape art has been a study of the Perrys, and their new plan will give Newport one of its most wonderful attractions.

GARDNER GIVES LIE TO STANLEY

WASHINGTON, April 3.—Round one, opens with skirmish of words, in which Congressman Gardner of Massachusetts son-in-law of Senator Lodge, (weight 185 pounds) gets the honors by hurling the word "liar" at his adversary, Augustus O. Stanley, chairman of the House Steel Trust Investigating Committee.

Round two—More "liars" are hurled, but Mr. Gardner gets in some adjectives and honors are again his.

Round three—Congressman Gardner leads with stiff left to head, but Stanley cleverly sidesteps. Gardner swings wildly and then tries stiff left to jaw, but misses. Stanley unscathed. Honors to Stanley.

Bout stopped by spectators, with honors about even.

This tells the story of a lively set-to between the Congressman from Massachusetts and the Chairman of the Steel Investigating Committee at an executive session of the committee.

The committee was in session to decide upon the future course of the investigation. Some members desired that more witnesses be called including J. P. Morgan. Mr. Stanley and the majority of the Democratic members were in favor of closing the investigation immediately.

Mr. Gardner took from his pocketbook a newspaper clipping to the effect that he asked Mr. Morgan be called at this time. The clipping purported to be the happenings of the executive session of the committee which was held last Saturday, and which broke up rather unpleasantly.

Gardner said that he was tired of the leaks that occurred after every executive session of the committee, and he felt especially indignant at the members of the committee who had mentioned the part he took in the session to outsiders.

After saying that the statement in the paper was false in certain parts as far as he was concerned and that he had no respect for the man who had given it out, he turned on Mr. Stanley and asked him if it were not a fact that he had not only given out that statement, but many others of a similar class.

"If you mean to infer that I gave it out or have done any of the other things you are critisizing, you must realize that you are telling what is not true," Mr. Stanley replied.

"I'll show you who's telling the truth and who is not. This business has gone entirely too far and I am sick and tired of your actions," shouted Gardner as he got up from his seat at the end of the dais and started for the chairman.

Congressmen Young and Sterling, two Republican heavyweights, with a combined avoirdupois of about 400 pounds, grabbed Gardner and induced him to take his seat. In the meantime Bartlett of Georgia, who is known as the bantamweight of the House, assisted Stanley in keeping the dignity of the chair.

As soon as the would-be combatants took their places the conversation was resumed and Mr. Gardner said a few more things that reflected upon the manner in which Stanley had handled certain parts of the investigation. The chairman took exception to one of Gardner's strictures and added an unpleasant rejoinder.

"You are a—liar and I'll get you this time," shouted Gardner as he yanked off his coat and leaped at the chairman.
ducked one and sidestepped the other. Three Democratic members took Stanley aside while the three Republicans quieted Gardner.

The outburst was the result of long felt ill-feeling which resulted from differences of opinion concerning the propriety of certain phases of the investigation.

Gardner, who is forty-seven years old, is a son-in-law of Senator Lodge. He is a

Harvard man and served in the Spanish War.

The committee decided it could not hold the hearings open until J. P. Morgan returns from abroad.

The trouble between Chairman Stanley and Representative Gardner has been brewing many months. Mr. Gardner has objected frequently to what have been termed the "grandstand" tactics employed by the chairman of the committee.

AUTHORS, PRODUCERS AND CAST IN "NO MEN WANTED"

Fashionable Checkerton Apartments' Tenants to See Playlet Based on Themselves.

BROCKTON, April 3.—Tenants of the fashionable Checkerton apartments on April 26 will be spectators of a strictly private production of the original comedy, "No Men Wanted," which is written around the Checkerton and its society tenants.

The authors, producers and cast are combined in the charming persons of Miss Hazel Moulton and Miss Helen Fausse, both residents in the Checkerton.

The girls are each fourteen years old and chums. They are always together and, what is considered the most remarkable, it is said of them that they never quarrel.

A year ago the girls conceived the idea of writing a playlet, based on life in the Checkerton. They started in. After a year's labor they have finished the playlet, and now have it ready for presentation.

Every family in the building comes in for a bit of comedy. Even the telephone switchbord in the basement is used in the plot. So the play is to be presented in the basement of the Checkerton.

The youthful playwright-actors have been coached by Miss Moulton's mother, who is agent for the apartments. Only tenants of the building will be allowed to see the production. Friends of the tenants are curious about this apartment house play and are besieging them with requests to be smuggled into the audience under the guise of "relatives from out of town."

The Checkerton is named for its architectural design, being constructed after the fashion of a checkerboard, with the black squares representing the apartments and the red squares the light wells between. It is said to be the only building of its kind in the country.

GENERAL GRANT, GETTING BETTER, SHUNS PUBLICITY

TAMPA, Fla., April 3.—General Frederick D. Grant, Commander of the Department of the East, with headquarters in New York, who has been ill at the home of Mrs. Potter Palmer, in Manatee County, has sufficiently recovered to move to a resort farther south, where he and his relatives have succeeded in eluding publicity.

It was reported at the Potter Palmer estate that General Grant had gone to Sarasota, or near there, but all efforts to find him failed. The statement was made that the general was rapidly convalescing and soon would return to his post at Governors Island.

MISSING GROCER IS FOUND IN STATION

Martin McCormack, a Lawrence grocer, returned to his home today after having been missing for nearly a week. It was at first thought that he had met foul play, as he always carried a large sum of money on his person. While relatives were in this city searching for him, they learned that a man arrested at the East Dedham street station on a minor charge was the missing man. He had $236.99 left out of $400, which he had when he disappeared.

The Comfort and Economy of Tourists Sleeping Cars in Traveling to the Pacific Coast

I would like to explain to you just what a Tourist Sleeping car is, what conveniences and comforts they have, and how you can save money by joining one of our through parties, which go to the coast every week in one of these cars, escorted by a special conductor employed by the "Burlington Route" to look after your comfort. For many years the Burlington Route Through Tourist Car Excursions to California have been widely known for the excellence of the service provided, and the character of the employes in charge. The whole idea of these parties is to provide a way for people of moderate means to make the California trip comfortably and in thoroughly good hands, and at the same time at an expense that is not prohibitive. Please call at the office or write—a postal will do. Alex Stocks, New England Passenger Agent, C. B. & Q. R. R., 284 Washington Street, Boston, Mass. Telephone Main 4387.

BLACK PATCHES ADORN FACES OF SOCIETY WOMEN

NEW YORK, April 3.—The fad of wearing black patches on the cheek has been revived and society women are appearing in public with the beauty marks. The last time the fad was popular women wore the court plaster cut in round or square shapes, but now each woman has an individual pattern. Punches, similar to those used by conductors, are being sold with the court plaster, to cut it into odd figures, which are stuck on the cheek or upper lip.

Women who have fair complexions are especially fond of the black patches because of the attractive contrast they give. Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, Jr., appeared at a recent affair with a patch on her face. Mrs. Robert Goelet and a number of other prominent society women also wore patches cut in various designs.

WRECKAGE SHOWS 130 PERISHED IN GALE ON STEAMER

PERTH, Western Australia, April 3.—Wreckage picked up off the coast appears to indicate the fate of the fifty passengers and the eighty men of the crew of the British steamship Koombana, which has been missing since the typhoon on the northwest coast of Western Australia in the last week of March. The wreckage of the Koombana, which belongs at Adelaide, was found in the vicinity of the pearl fishing station at Broome, a small seaport in the Kimberly division of Western Australia. Forty pearl fishers lost their lives in the gale.

GOVERNMENT AFTER EXPRESS ROBBERS

WASHINGTON, April 3.—An $8,000 express robbery, which has baffled Southern Express Company officials, was taken up today by the government secret service. It occurred between Roanoke, Va., and Norfolk, Va., when a leather pouch, containing $12,000 government money consigned to this city, was robbed of two-thirds of its contents. When the package shipped from the United States sub-treasury at New Orleans to the treasury here arrived in Norfolk it had been cut into, apparently with a sharp knife, and there was but $4,000 in it.

17 KILLED BY CONJURER

LAFAYETTE, La., April 3.—In a confession filled with mysterious traces of voodooism and negro superstition, Clementine Barnabet, a colored woman, confessed to killing seventeen of thirty-seven persons. The entire thirty-seven recently have met death, in the rice belt of Louisiana and east Texas, victims of the "Axe Man" of the mysterious sacrifical sect.

Clementine says that after getting her conjuring outfit she first killed a family of four, at Rayne, then five in Crowley, then eleven in Lafayette, two families, numbering five and six, respectively.

CHALLENGE FOR TUFTS PRESIDENT

The Boston Socialist Club has sent the following letter to President Hamilton of Tufts College:

> Dear Sir—The executive committee of the Socialist party of Boston has read the report of your address in Portland, Me., as published in the Boston newspapers. As it takes exception to your attitude and believes it to be a matter of public interest and education to have Socialism discussed, it hereby invites you to a public debate, at some date in the near future. The details can be arranged according to the convenience of yourself and our committee.

CONTEST WILL OF THEIR SON

Husband was arraigned against wife in a contest for a son's estate, in the Probate Court today before Judge George. Levi M. Hastings, a hotel keeper at Putnam, Conn., is the contestant, against his wife, Abbie J. Hastings, who lives apart from her husband at the Hotel Otis, Mt. Vernon street, Boston. They have been parted ten years.

The contest is over a $15,000 estate left by their son, Arthur E. Hastings, formerly of Brookline, who died at the Danvers Insane Asylum in 1910. He was committeed in 1908. His will, made in 1905, named his mother as sole beneficiary.

Jesse Gove, attorney for Mrs. Hastings as well as for her son, testified he drew the will and that Arthur Hastings had specified not one cent was to go to his father, on account of the way his mother had been treated by him.

At the mention of her son's name Mrs. Hastings bowed her gray head and wept.

H. H. Bond, lawyer for Hastings, told the court he had proof to show Arthur Hastings was insane at the time he made his will.

"Daughter of Navy" Sponsor

MISS KANE, WHO CHRISTENS WARSHIP

Launch Torpedo Boat Destroyer Today at the Quincy Yard

Reciprocating and Turbine Engines Used in Combination.

Sponsor at Ceremony Comes from Family Famous in the Navy.

Swinging a bottle of champagne with a resounding crash against the prow of the new torpedo boat destroyer Henley, at the Fore River Works, Quincy, this noon, Miss Constance Henley Kane of New York, daughter of a fighting family, christened the new vessel named for one of her forebears.

Miss Kane nearly missed the boat when she threw the bottle. Also, when the destroyer was about to be launched the "sole piece" which held it fast to the ways got twisted in such a way that the ship careened and looked as if it was going to turn turtle into the water instead of taking the slide. It was only through the skilful handling of the workmen that the accident was averted.

Miss Kane, sponsor for the ship, was on the launching platform with a party of friends. There was a strong northwest wind blowing at the time. When it was seen that the "sole piece" had responded to the saw which releases it from its fastenings, Miss Kane raised the bottle of champagne over her head and barely hit the prow of the ship with it. In a clear, ringing voice she shouted:

"I christen thee Henley!"

The new addition to the navy struck the water with a splash at precisely 11:33 a. m., and was pulled around to the fitting out dock. The launching party adjourned to the company's annex, where a buffet luncheon was served.

The launching was one of the prettiest held at Fore River. Miss Kane was the picture of girlish beauty as she stood on the launching platform, waiting for the signal from Rear Admiral Bowles to christen the new destroyer.

She was delighted, as she frankly said when she arrived in Boston, at the opportunity to act as sponsor for the Henley. She was all the more pleased that the uncertain weather settled to sunshine and fair skies for the ceremony itself.

Many of the fair sponsors of war vessels launched at Fore River have been selected because of the political offices of their fathers, like the daughters of Governors or Mayors of States or cities for which vessels have been named. The previous sponsors, many of them at least, have not been particularly identified with the navy or the naval set. But Miss Kane is of naval descent and is enthusiastic about the navy and all that goes with it.

She came on from New York yesterday for the launching and has been the guest of her uncle, Lieut.-Col. Theodore P. Kane, of the Marine Barracks, Charlestown.

The Henley will be an oil-burning boat and will be equipped with both reciprocating and turbine engines, which is a new departure in United States naval vessels. Her builders feel confident that she will make at least thirty-one knots an hour.

At the cruising rates of speed she will use the reciprocating engines, and while traveling faster than sixteen knots she will use the turbine engines.

ROOSEVELT HITS AT BOSS POWER

ON BOARD THE ROOSEVELT SPECIAL, HINTON, W. Va., April 3.—While proceeding Southward today Theodore Roosevelt stopped at Ronceverte, a little hamlet, long enough to make a brief speech in which he told West Virginians not to be dominated by "Boss power."

All the 1,500 people in the town trooped down to the station to hear the ex-President.

"If you want independence in government down here," he cried, "Don't let the bosses try to rule for you. You may make mistakes in governing yourselves, but they will be your own, and you can rectify them. The bosses wont."

In hitting at the tactics of the bosses he gave an indirect slap at President Taft and his leaders for the steam roller tactics down South.

"Don't let them cheat you out of the delegates," cried Roosevelt. The Colonel was caught unprepared when he found last night that his trip has been extended to one of ten days so as to take in Illinois and Pennsylvania. He was equipped for only three days and had to telegraph home for more apparel to be sent on instead of returning to New York tomorrow night.

After his Parkersburg speech the ex-President will go to Illinois, speaking on Saturday in Springfield.

HARRISON WINS CHICAGO FIGHT

CHICAGO, April 3.—Progressive Democracy, led by Mayor Harrison and supported by the Hearst newspapers, scored a great triumph in the aldermanic elections in Chicago. There were twenty-six Democratic candidates pledged to support Mayor Harrison's progressive policies. Eighteen of these were elected.

Four of those who were defeated were candidates in hopelessly Republican wards, and it was not expected that they would be elected. Two of the others defeated lost their fights because of a bi-partisan alliance between Roger Sullivan and the machine Republicans assisted by thousands of dollars that was spent by the traction companies and the Gas Trust. Roger Sullivan lost his home ward.

The new City Council will stand forty-five Democrats to twenty-four Republicans, nine Democratic majority being the largest ever known.

The results of today's election forecasts the choice of Champ Clark as presidential nominee on next Tuesday at the primaries. The Sullivan wing of the Democracy is supporting Wilson, while the Harrison Democrats are behind Clark.

SOCIALISTS BEATEN IN MILWAUKEE BY ALLIED PARTIES

MILWAUKEE, April 3.—Mayor Emil Seidel and the bulk of the Socialist ticket were buried under an avalanche of votes in the municipal election here, the fusionists, according to today's returns, having a plurality of 13,000. The fusion ticket headed by Dr. Gerard A. Bading, carried the combined strength of all the parties except the Socialists—Republicans and Democrats working together. The poll is the heaviest ever cast in a municipal election here, the vote totalling 73,779. Of this number Seidel received 30,200 and Bading 44,177. Two years ago, when Seidel received a 7,000 plurality, the vote was under 60,000. The Socialists won seven out of the thirty-three Aldermen elected and the fusionists the rest. There are four hold-over Socialists, making the new City Council twenty-six fusionists and eleven Socialists.

Returns today from all parts of the State in yesterday's presidential preference primary—showed that Senator Robert M. La Follette has carried Wisconsin over President Taft by a vote of at least 50,000 and that he will have the twenty-six delegates behind him when he enters the Republican convention. Three delegates are still in doubt, but late indications are that they will go to the Wisconsin Senator.

Governor Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey, has been returned winner over Champ Clark, Speaker of the House, and the twenty-six Democratic delegates will go to Baltimore instructed for the New Jersey executive.

NO MORE INDIGESTION, DYSPEPSIA OR SOUR, GASSY, UPSET STOMACH

Every year regularly more than a million stomach sufferers in the United States, England and Canada take Pape's Diapepsin and realize not only immediate but lasting relief.

This harmless preparation will digest anything you eat and overcome a sour, gassy or out-of-order stomach five minutes afterwards.

If your meals don't fit comfortably, or what you eat lies like a lump of lead in your stomach, or if you have heartburn, that is a sign of Indigestion.

Get from your Pharmacist a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin and take a dose just as soon as you can. There will be no sour risings, no belching of undigested food mixed with acid, no stomach gas or heartburn, fullness or heavy feeling in the stomach, Nausea, Debilitating Headaches, Dizziness or Intestinal griping. This will all go, and, besides, there will be no sour food left over in the stomach to poison your breath with nauseous odors.

Pape's Diapepsin is a certain cure for out-of-order stomachs, because it takes hold of your food and digests it just the same as if your stomach wasn't there.

Relief in five minutes from all stomach misery is waiting for you at any drug store.

These large 50-cent cases contain more than sufficient to thoroughly cure almost any case of Dyspepsia, Indigestion or any other stomach disorder.

Men, Kindly Be Patient! Next Sunday Is Easter

Think of Troubles the Ladies Are Having Over Hats

CERISE AND DERBIES, EVERYWHERE, SEEM TO BE THE RAGE IN STYLES.

By ELIZABETH ELLIOTT.

Of all the dizzying, soul-weakening, purse-pulling jobs it is surely that of the woman shopper. If your sister is peevish and irritable just now or your wife greets you these nights with a heap-big grouch sticking out of the corner of her eye, or your sweetheart refuses to see you on the plea of being too tired, oh you men be patient, for of all the throes of your business, the cares, the uncertainties and even the failures you never have endured what these fair creatures are enduring now.

Spring is here for sure and Easter is only a few days distant. The shops are brimming over with the most alluring things imaginable and milady must be decked out for Easter. Naturally it's to these same alluring shops that she hies herself for that hat, suit, waist, gloves, stockings and shoes, all of which are so necessary for the Easter show. She goes early in the morning, through the mazes of all the finery which calls to her feminine heart. She makes her way all day with such persistence that no wonder her soul is tired.

Her purse could never stand the strain and keep within the limits, and so she buys the thing she really doesn't want just because she can't afford the thing she does want. Isn't that enough to give any girl the grouch and to make her think that life isn't worth living, even if it is Easter and the whole outside world seems glad? The contrast only makes her misery all the more real. There are seven articles she really must have, and to find what she wants for what she wants to pay for it is the great grouch-producing problem.

Everything Is Cerise.

Cerise, cerise, cerise! Everything's cerise. It fairly shouts at you from the shop windows as you walk along the streets. Cerise hats, cerise gowns, cerise petticoats—everything, everywhere cerise. The most striking features about the Spring's styles are derby hats and cerise. The cerise is bad, the derby hats are worse, but the cerise derby! From all such may the girl with decent taste be delivered.

The girl who has a hundred dollars to spend on her Spring outfit gets no sympathy. The world is hers—hats, gowns, shoes, stockings, gloves, everything she can practically get of the best for that. There's the stunning whipcord suits in all colors of Spring, beautifully lined and tailored with the dainty little ruff of lace or ruching just peeping out from under the long revers and finishing the sleeve at the wrist. The coat made on the longest, slimmest lines imaginable, the skirt with the high waist line and a bit wider than the skirts of the Winter, the back pleat being stitched down rather than left flying as on the Winter suits.

Then her hat for twenty-five dollars. We take it that the girl who has twenty-five dollars to spend on a hat will pass up the derby. Her's will be a wonderful creation of milan straw trimmed with flowers and expensive plumes. Her shoes (for eight dollars) will be either the smart round toed patent kid or the high white buckskin, and her silk stockings, either black or white as her choice in shoes may be, will come at the cost of two dollars a pair.

The Favrite Gloves.

There are gloves to match every imaginable shade of suit, but the white kid or the long washable doeskin are still the favored. The fluffy-ruffly petticoat is a decidedly necessary adjunct and either matches the suit or is of a contrasting shade. Perfect beauties can be bought for eight dollars. Then comes the shirt waist of the finest embroidered linen made with the new skirt effect for four dollars, and the dainty little bows and jabots for the neck at one dollar. There she has her whole outfit—but her hundred is gone.

The girl with the hundred dollars for her Easter outfit doesn't have to be so careful in her choice as the girl with less income. If she has that much to spend for Easter, no doubt she has more tucked away where that came from, and if she tires of her cerise hat she can buy a sombre black one later on. But to the girl with limited means I say beware of cerise and taboo the derby. Both are too striking to last, and even this early in the season we're tired of them.

The Girl with $50.

The girl with $50 to spend can thank her lucky stars, too, for with that amount any girl with good judgment and good taste can be faultlessly dressed. Let her pay $25 for her suit, and for that amount there are some pretty fine specimens. Many of them are of the Norfolk style. Even the Summer dresses with most distinction are made along Norfolk lines, the waist or jacket belted in with narrow patent leather belts. The dresses are mostly of pique in all colors, with sailor collar and cuffs of white lace or embroidery.

On many of the suits the wide collar and cuffs are made of white stuff, which looks for all the world like Turkish toweling. But it's smart and dresses a suit up and gives it style. Besides it's washable and that helps some. Well, any of these suits may be had for twenty-five dollars, but the neatest and most serviceable of them all is the whipcord in the lighter shades, made with the close fitting skirt, of the cutaway variety, and the revers of the cutaway variety an dthe revers made of silk of the predominating shade in the suit.

There's $12.50 for the Hat.

Then there is twelve-fifty for the hat. Naturally there are no expensive plumes to be had at that price. But the flower hats, the lace and satin-trimmed ones or even the neat little cocade shapes with the feathery ornaments may be among her choice. There's no end of variety in these, and for $12.50 decidedly smart ones are to be had. The girl with only $12.50 to spend, however, must avoid the extremes. No derby and no cerise in her's. Anyway, the derbys are decidedly too ordinary for the girl with good taste.

Then there are the shoes for four dollars. The coming season is to be a white season and white shoes are to be quite the thing again this Summer. For the girl with four dollars to spend on shoes there are the white buckskin, and there are good ones at that price. Perhaps she'll delay the white shoe game until later in the season and will get for now the more durable black pump or oxford.

Then she has a dollar for her gloves. She'll quite likely get the white washable doeskin which can be had for a dollar. They will of course be the short kind, but she has gotten the coat with the long sleeves, which must do service for next Fall, too, so she will want the short ones. Then comes the petticoat. The jersey-top ones with the silk flounce are perfect beauties and four dollars buys the best of them.

There are two dollars left for the shirt waist, and some decidedly dainty ones can be purchased for that, and pretty bows that cost but fifty cents. There are still the stockings, and if she looks around for sales she can get some fairly good silk ones for a dollar.

Artificial flowers made out of satin and silk are decidedly attractive and adorn almost every sort of gown. The small ones are the prettier and the daintier, but fashion dictates that the large ones shall be the favored. It is a little bit hard on the girl with only $25, but if she is clever she can thank her lucky stars she has that much and go ahead and spend it with good cheer. She can get a dandy little suit for $12.50. A bedford cord one, naturally not so fine as the more expensive ones, but still exceptionally good ones for that amount. I saw some of them for that looking for all the world like the $25 ones.

CATARRH EASILY CONQUERED

Germs Destroyed; Discharge Stopped; Sore Membrane Quickly Healed—Often Restores Hearing.

HYOMEI, a pleasant antiseptic, germ-destroying, vaporized air breathed over the entire membrane of the nose and throat and deep into the lungs over the bronchial or air tubes will kill catarrh germs; soothe and heal the sore catarrhal spots and stop the discharge of mucus in a few days.

Sprays, douches, snuffs or ointments won't end catarrh because they are not penetrating enough to get where the germs are.

So surely does HYOMEI (pronounced High-o-me) clear up the head and penetrate into the innermost recesses of the entire nasal tract that it very often drives out the catarrhal conditions in the tubes that connect the ears with the nose and by so doing restores hearing to persons who believed they were destined to be deaf for life.

If you have catarrh, dear reader, do not forget that HYOMEI is a wonderful remedy for catarrh and is free from cocaine, or any other injurious drug.

A complete outfit, which includes a hard rubber pocket inhaler, costs $1.00. If you already own an inhaler you can get a bottle of HYOMEI for only 50 cents at pharmacists the world over.

PLAN TO UNITE THE CHURCHES

Unification of all the Protestant churches in Massachusetts in eight years is the plan of the Federation of Churches.

It will take some time for the plan to shape itself so that permanent results may be obtained.

Already a movement has been started by the Federation, whose headquarters are at No. 53 Mount Vernon street, to commemorate the 300th anniversary of the landing of the Pilgrim Fathers on Plymouth Rock. This will take place December 20, 1920.

The Protestant bodies, it is believed by the Federation, will show a united front when that anniversary arrives.

While the Protestant churches will maintain their respective organizations, the Federation plan will then be completed of their working together and not overlapping one another's work. Many community meetings will be held in all the large cities of Massachusetts upon this anniversary, and it is expected the different Protestant bodies will then make a permanent agreement among themselves along the following lines:

1. They will remove all duplications of church effort by exchange of fields, consolidation or federation. When one church can do the work of four in any community it will be the plan to keep the one church and concentrate the best into it.

2. Local churches will be grouped so that effective methods for co-operation in all common social work will be established.

3. In the city certain blocks and streets will be assigned to a certain church and that will be considered its special field. No other Protstant church can enter this field.

4. Every church in a special locality will be required to put forth every possible effort in teaching morals. The ministers will be required to attend the hearings in the State House bearing upon any question of sanitation, housing, recreation or education.

5. Every church will be asked to study the questions of labor and capital in its own special neighborhood. It will stand ready to adjust difficulties in case of strikes.

Doctrinal differences will be allowed, but they will be second to the practical and social needs of the churches.

The consolidation of Protestant churches in this city has been going on quietly for some time and in eight years, on the anniversary of the landing of the Pilgrims, it is hoped by the Federation that all the barriers of denominationalism will be down. The president of the Federation is Rev. Charles F. Rice, with Rev. H. A. Manchester secretary and Rev. E. T. Root field secretary.

Mrs. Eills Planning to Seek Divorce

Wife of Clergyman Winner of Fight for Child—Back in Revere.

Mrs. Harriet A. Eills, who returned to Revere today after winning her long fight against her husband, the Rev. John Eills of the Chicopee Unitarian Church for the custody of her daughter, Olga, declared that she will shortly begin divorce proceedings in the Boston courts, basing her allegations on facts elicited during the trial.

The long fight which Mrs. Eills has waged to secure possession of the child ended quickly. When attorneys for the pastor concluded their arguments for giving the child to the father, Judge Long said to Mrs. Eills' attorney.

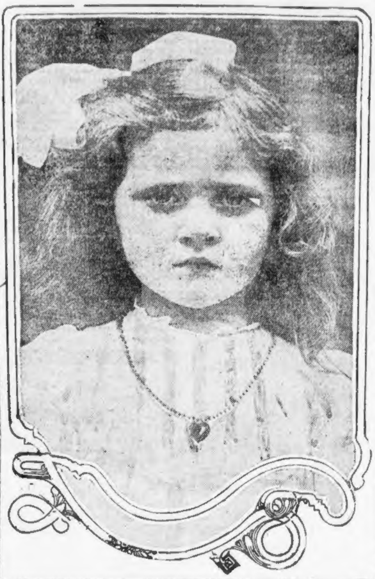
"You need not present any argument. I have already formed my decision."

He then awarded the custody of the child.

Testimony in the case was sensational. The pastor charged that his wife was insane. Mrs. Eills in turn produced manuscripts and scenarios of plays, with letters, poems and documents of various kinds, calculated to show that her husband was unfit to have the care of the little girl. From these papers, it was argued that the pastor was a disciple of 'free love," but this he denied.

The little girl was given temporarily into the mother's custody during a recess in the case, and the two spent the time in Revere.

OLGA EILLS, NOW WITH MOTHER.



"TO OLGA"

By the Rev. John Eills.

My little lassie's golden head
Is like a bunch of jonquils fair
Apeep above the Earth's green bed
When Springtime softens Winter's air.

My little lassie's silvery voice
Pipes ever to my heart, Rejoice!
The thrush's gayest, sweetest note
Pours from my little lassie's throat.

The April skies my eyes beguile
Because they're like my lassie's smile.
The shimmering pools still lack a grace
Till they reflect my lassie's face.

When the south breezes kiss the land
And stirs the harsher northern air,
I feel my little lassie's hand
Pressing her fingers through my hair.

And when the young things leap and play
That are, but were not yesterday,
I hear my lassie's merry shout
And see her dancing all about.

My little lassie's wondrous soul
Is like the sea, the sky, the whole.
She is not absent anywhere—
Look where I may I find her there.

100 ONCE FAT WOMEN TO CLIMB PIKE'S PEAK

One hundred women, formerly obese, are to climb to the apex of Pike's Peak from Ute Iron Springs. That is the programme mapped out among the novelties for Colorado the coming Spring or Summer.

This idea originated with a Denver girl—Miss Marjorie F. Hamilton, who believes that physical regeneration should manifest itself in the full exercise of the restored powers.

Miss Hamilton is known all over the continent (and indeed in pretty nearly the entire world) for her drugless treatment of fat reduction, and is a living example of its efficacy. Thousands of men and women have experienced its beneficent effects, and many of them have fallen in love with the state from which their redemption has issued. During many months Miss Hamilton has been portraying the glories of the Rockies to her sisters, and her present plan, which promises the fruit of fulfillment, embodies some new and interesting features.

"What I propose doing is this," Miss Hamilton explained. "I intend to induce one hundred ladies, who have become slender through the use of my drugless treatment of obesity reduction, to come to Colorado during June or July. We shall go from Denver to Colorado Springs in a special train. The first number on our chart will be a banquet in the Garden of the Gods, and it is my purpose to have a camping party made up to sleep among those titanic boulders that night. Early the next morning, we shall board the electric car for Manitou, and then proceed to Ute Iron Springs, at the foot of the famous Peak. This point is substantially six thousand feet above sea level, and the crest of Pike's Peak slightly exceeds fourteen thousand feet. We shall start up the trail shortly after six o'clock, and I believe by nightfall we shall be at the top. Of course, climatic conditions alter a great deal on the way up. There will be blizzards and high winds, and other disagreeable things. But I see no reason why we can't make it.

"I have figured that these women, on the average, have lost 40 pounds' weight. That is a matter of two tons' loss for the one hundred ladies. Some will be girls; others matrons—but we shall take our time, stop at the half-way house for coffee and lunch, and continue to the top."

MANAGER APRIL CHANGES BILL

Manager April, the new Boss of the Weather Theatre, gave Bostonians a bill today that was full of life and surprises.

The bill opened with a brisk turn by that sterling old chap J. Pluvius in his time-honored sketch, "Some Showers."

Suddenly this act was withdrawn and, to the vast surprise of the audience, the stage was taken by "Winter Snow," who came back to play a return engagement after a long and successful season. The appearance of "Winter Snow" fairly startled the audience. It was a novelty all right, but was evidently no favorite, for the act didn't get a hand.

After a while the management perceived that "Snow" was only a frost and changed the entire setting for a new act.

This next turn was a corker. It was the popular favorite, Old Sol, in his cheerful human interest drama entitled "Sunshine Bright."

This act was a hit, nothing less than a riot. By the way it started in it looked as though "Sunshine Bright" would hold the stage of the Weather Theatre for the rest of the day.

But Manager April is known to be a changeable fellow, so the audience was prepared for most anything.

KENNEDY IS GIVEN UP FOR A SUICIDE

ROCKLAND, April 3.—Mrs. Henry J. Kennedy has given her husband up for dead, following the receipt of the following note, postmarked Newport, R. I.:

"I am writing this on the boat, and the next step will be my last. It will be a hard one, but it will be better so."

When Kennedy disappeared, leaving several letters telling of his intention to jump off the Fall River boat, his wife still believed he would be heard from. The receipt of the last letter, however, has convinced her that he has carried out his threats.

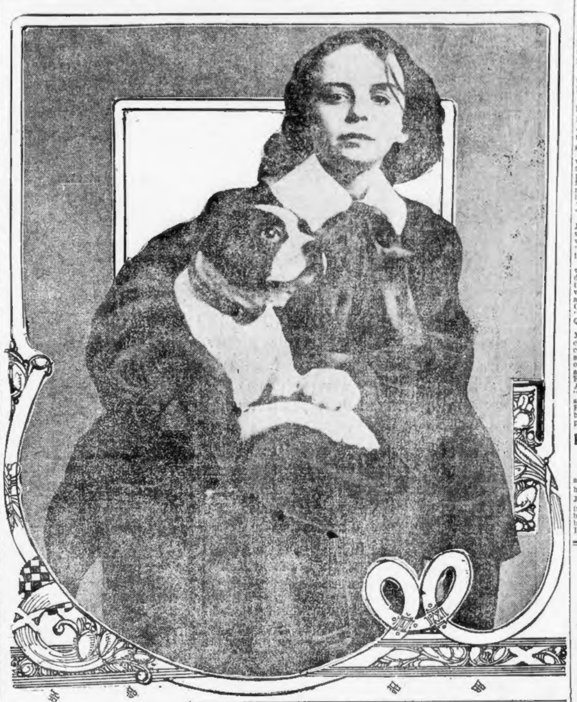
Women Reign at Eastern Dog Show

◆ ◆ ◆

Prominent Persons Exhibit Entries

MISS HELEN S. HICKEY, A YOUTHFUL EXHIBITOR AT THE DOG SHOW



Society is paying homage to Dogdom today. The Dog has been crowned King, Pro Tem

In all the dog shows held in Mechanics Building none has boasted so many women exhibitors as the one now in progress. Nearly one-half the exhibitors are of the fair sex, and they are capturing a goodly share of the prizes.

In nearly every class that enters the ring for the judges to pass upon there is usually a woman among those showing off their pets at the end of a leash. They display remarkable knowledge of canine lore by showing their pets to the best possible advantage while under the scrutinizing eyes of the judges.

The gallery around the ring is also well sprinkled with members of the fair sex, so it might easily be imagined that this show is a big event among the women.

Among the prominent society women who are showing their aristocratic dogs off today are Mrs. Arnold Lawson, whose champion, Noswal Nabob, has the reputation of being the only undefeated French bull in America. Mrs. Lawson is taking a keen interest in the show, as she confidently believes that her dog will eclipse its father, Noswal Gamin, in the special match for the $500 trophy. The latter is owned by Thomas W. Lawson. The Dreamwold entries are among the best at the show, including English bulls, Scottish terriers, spaniels and coach dogs.

Another woman whose entries are admired by the visitors is that of Mrs. G. Steadman Thomas of Hamilton, who has several crack little full-blooded Pomeranians. Among them is Champion Endcliffe Raven, who won first prize at both the Boston and New York shows and was adjudged the best toy dog of the one held in this city. Another little beauty is Dalilah, who has won points at Boston, Philadelphia nd Mineola, and is nearly a champion.

Bostonians were in the forefront in the first day's awards at the Mechanics Building dog show.

The Hub literally swept through the Airedale class, and it was largely a one-man triumph. William Prescott Wolcott won about everything. Soudan Stamboul exhibited by Mr. Wolcott, defeated Kenmore Sorceress for the cup offered by James L. Little for the best Airedale terrier.

Defeated Dog Blue-Ribboner.

In the recent Westminster show at New York, Sorceress not only cleaned up everything in this breed, but was adjudged the best dog of all breeds—the champion of champions. The contest between Stamboul and Sorceress was exceeding close, and Winthrop Rutherford of New York, the judge, hesitated a long time before he decided.

Several of the most noted St. Bernards in the United States were benched and many flocked to this ring when Judge Mortimer began to look the dogs over. Colonel Jacob Ruppert, Jr., of New York, had as great a triumph in this class as had Mr. Wolcott in the Airedale. His rough and smooth-coated dogs won in every class they were shown.

BIG CHANGES IN OPERA PLANS

The engagement of Charles Urban, the famous Viennese artist, as stage manager, and changes among the conductors and the casts, are among the important innovations planned for next season for the Boston Opera House.

Director Russell is today in conference with Director Gatti Casazza of the Metropolitan Opera House, in regard to sharing singers next season. Thursday he sails for Southampton, to spend the Spring in London and on the continent, seeking singers in France, Italy, Germany and Russia.

Only two of the conductors who have been active at the Opera House for the past two seasons will be retained—Andre-Caplet and Robert Moranzoni. In the latter half of the season Felix Weingartner will return.

Delano Merotti, the stage regisseur who has served with the Boston Opera for the past three seasons, will retire, and his place will be taken by Charles Urban, famous throughout Europe, who has already had a certain measure of responsibility for the scenery this past season of "Pelleas et Melisande," "Tristan" and "Hansel and Gretel."

"The Secret of Suzanne," and "The Jewels of the Madonna," will be presented, with Charpentier's "Louise." Miss Garden will appear in "Pelleas et Melisande," in "The Jewels of the Madonna" and other important roles, old and new.

Mozart's "Don Giovanni" will be revived with great care under Mr. Weingartner's direction. Other operas under consideration, to be produced if financial support warrants it, are Wagner's "Die Walknere" and Nicolai's "Merry Wives of Windsor." Other operas likely to be given will be "The Tales of Hoffman," Massenet's "Don Quixote," Flotow's "Martha."

Among the singers will be Melba, John McCormack, Frieda Mempel, a German coloratura singer of great fame, who will come to America for the first time next season, Lucrezia Bori of La Scala and other Italian theatres, equally renowned and equally new to the country. Mme. Fremstad, the greatest Isolde now on the American stage, will be the Isolde in "Tristan." Mme. Schumann-Heink and possibly also Mr. Bonci will appear. Vigliano Borghese is a new Italian baritone, said to be at the height of his powers and very popular in Europe.

PETERS' "CHILDREN BILL" TO PRESIDENT

The national House of Representatives, according to dispatches from Washington, has passed 175 to 17, Congressman Andrew J. Peters' bill creating a children's bureau in the Department of Commerce and Labor. The measure already had been passed by the Senate, and it now will go to the President for his action.

'HARVARD FOR RICH AND POOR'

"True democracy exists at Harvard," President Lowell told the Harvard men of Newton at the Brae-Burn Club. "We have the opportunities and we have the atmosphere which tends to make the kind of men we like to see in after life," he said. "A democracy," he declared, "is where all kinds of people are gathered, and there are all kinds at Cambridge. Of course there are rich men at Harvard, but there is also much deep poverty."

He told stories of struggling students who, as the faculty was constantly finding out were trying to subsist on insufficient food. He mentioned one who came to college from the West with but $10. He returned to the tenth reunion of his class in his automobile.

"We don't want all the boys in the United States; we want the best boys, the aggressive, red-blooded boys," said the president.

"Education in America is too formal," he said, in explaining the new system of entrance examinations. As disproving the assertion that this system results in a lowering of the Harvard standards, he cited 43 per cent. of rejections under the new, as opposed to 24 per cent. under the old system.

"It has resulted in getting into touch with high schools all over the country; twelve States not before reached were represented," he said. "Harvard aims to be a national university.

CHASE LOSES BIG WILL CONTEST

Denied a writ of error by the United States Supreme Court, Dr. Horace Chase of Swampscott has lost his six years' fight for possession of the $1,000,000 estate left by his wife, Jennie P. Phillips-Culliton Chase. Joseph H. Soliday, counsel for Chase, admits that no further action can be taken.

The case opened with the mysterious death September 10, 1905, of Mrs. Chase. She was found unconscious, lying on the floor of her room in Swampscott. The gas was turned on. She died three days later. September 16 she was buried, but the following day the body was exhumed, an autopsy performed and a small amount of arsenic was found, but not enough to cause death.

LOWELL AGENTS IGNORE I. W. W.

LOWELL, April 3.—The Lowell Manufacturers' Association, composed of the agents of the seven big cotton mills, recognized the A. F. of L. organizations among the striking operatives today by answering letters sent by the secretaries of the Loomfixers and Weavers' unions. There is a general feeling that the strike will be settled soon for reason of the increases in New Hampshire mills.

So far the agents have refused to answer letters sent by the Industrial Workers of the World.

But, although the agents have answered the letters from A. F. of L. unions, the replies to the union requests are unfavorable, judging by the gloomy attitude of the strikers and union officials at the Loomfixers' and Weavers' meetings today.

The union secretaries asked, in their letters to the agents, for 15 per cent. increase in wages, time and one-half for overtime, no Sunday work and for a conference between the agents and their respective operatives.

The agents met yesterday but refused to make any statements. The letters received by the loomfixers and weavers today were evidently drafted at the agents' meeting yesterday. The loomfixers and weavers refused today to say what the answer of the agents is. The operatives and their officials seemed downcast. This gave rise to inference that the requests of the A. F. of L. men were rejected.

The I. W. W. organization left letters at the mill counting rooms last week and left second letters last night. They offered to arrange conferences for the agents, not with the I. W. W. officials, but with their own men. The agents have ignored the I. W. W. letters so far.

At an I. W. W. meeting today severe criticism was made of ten out of sixteen striking mill-spinners, who returned to work at the Hamilton Mills. These are A. F. of L. men and this fact was commented on bitterly by the I. W. W. speakers.

The special committee, which was appointed to intercede with Judge John J. Pitman of Lowell District Court, in the case of Mrs. Mary Kokoski, who was sent to jail to work out a $45 fine, imposed for creating a disturbance Monday at the Tremont and Suffolk mills gate, reported that its attorney, Frank Goldman, saw Judge Pitman. His honor said he could not reduce the fine, nor entertain an appeal at this time. The committee voted that the fine would have to be paid from the I. W. W. funds. This was done. The woman was released from jail and sent home.

William E. Traunman, the organizer, in speaking of this, said that the I. W. W. organization cannot pay fines in ordinary cases, but an exception was made for Mrs. Kokoski on account of her condition.

A committee of twelve was appointed on finances. An appeal for help is to be circularized and sent broadcast by the I. W. W. Speakers will solicit funds in various cities and towns for the Lowell strike.

CLINTON OWNERS GRANT INCREASE ASKED BY STRIKERS

CLINTON, April 3.—Arthur H. Lowe, president of the Lancaster gingham mills, posted a notice today which virtually accedes to the strikers' demands for a 10 per cent. increase in wage schedule.

The notice reads that an investigation of the wage schedules of competing mills show there has been an increase to the rate paid in June, 1907. The notice says that, when the Lancaster mills resume work, the 1907 rate will be paid. That means about 10 per cent. over the rate paid March 1, last.

The mills are prepared to resume work any time the 2,800 idle operatives desire to come back under the increased rate. The first of March the weavers demanded ten per cent. increase. The corporation offered five. Two weeks ago 1,000 hands struck. This threw the rest out. The mills shut down.

A meeting of the strikers is expected soon to act on the new offer.

SAILORS OF CRUISER MARYLAND AID POLICE BEATEN IN I. W. W. RIOT

SAN DIEGO, Cal., April 3.—Police were forced to use their clubs vigorously early today to quell a riot in Fourth street, when a score of members of the Industrial Workers of the World attacked Patrolman Langford. Sailors from the cruiser Maryland, in port here, went to the patrolman's aid and joined in the fight. Langford was terribly beaten. Hundreds joined in the fight and policemen were sent to the scene. The situation is grave and further outbreaks are feared.

NEW HACKETT CASE SUSPECT

AUGUSTA, Me., April 3.—Charles E. Stevens of Watertown, Ct., formerly manager of the Elmwood House in Readfield, near the home of Mattie Hackett, resumed the stand today when the Grand Jury, which is probing for the second time the seven-year-old murder of the girl, reconvened.

Levi L. Hackett, father of the murdered girl, has testified but will be recalled later in the hearing.

A new turn was taken today by the investigation when the story of Representative Augustus Percy of Bath, became public. The refusal of Representative Percy to acknowledge a summons ordering him to appear before the Grand Jury showed that a new light had been shed on the mystery.

Representative Percy exercised the prerogative which exempts members of the Legislature from having to obey a summons while the Legislature is in session. "They could not get me before the Grand Jury if they sent a company of soldiers," declared the legislator.

The testimony Representative Percy might give is known, though the facts have never before been exploited. He has no hesitancy in discussing the case with newspaper men.

Back in the Spring of 1905 the legislator with his wife and a Mr. and Mrs. Harry Stetson of Bath went to the Elmwood House in Readfield, a hotel near the home of Mattie Hackett on Kent's Hill.

The hotel was conducted at that time by Stevens, who testified before the Grand Jury. Mattie Hackett was employed as a waitress in the house, having just returned to the town of her birth from Boston, where she had been a waitress at the Hotel Oxford on Huntington avenue.

The house was empty of guests save the Percys and Stetsons. A little niece of Mr. Stevens was staying with him, two or three other children, and on the night in question, a Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Hopkins were visiting at the hotel. Hopkins was the driver of the local stage.

RIOTING MARKS ENGLISH STRIKE

LONDON, April 3.—With the vote of the miners strongly in favor of continuing the coal strike, the alarm which is felt by the government at outbreaks of violence was emphasized today by a conference which King George held with Premier Asquith. The Premier remained for some time with His majesty, discussing the vote against the minimum wage bill in North England and reports of rioting in Scotland and Wales.

Serious rioting in which many were hurt occurred in the coal mining district at Glencraig, Scotland, today. A mob of strikers attempted the destruction of a colliery company's property. They refused to obey an order to disperse and fifty police were sent against them. The rioters engaged the policemen in hand to hand fighting. Finally the men were scattered and the ringleader arrested.

Striking miners attacked the homes of non-unionists at Pontypool today because the non-unionists returned to the pits, and street fighting followed in which several persons were wounded.

England is going to tackle the high cost of living problem along the lines laid down by President Taft, according to an announcement in Parliament today. Sir Edward Grey, the foreign minister, in answering interpellations in Commons, said his attention had been called to President Taft's recent message and he had instructed Ambassador Bryce to forward a copy to the foreign office.

BRIBERY PROBE IN MAINE TODAY

AUGUSTA, Me., April 3. — There was much excitement about the State House today prior to the opening of the Legislature investigation of the bribery charges against Sheriff Charles O. Emery. President Nathan Clifford will preside at the hearing, which will begin at 2 o'clock.

A joint committee of the House and Senate reported today the rules of procedure to be followed.

This action was decided on by the Legislature after it had received a message from Governor Plaisted calling for an investigation to prevent a condition of delay, "which cannot be tolerated."

The message says that "charges of so grave a nature cannot be lightly passed over. If true, it is the imperative duty of the Legislature to request the removal of the guilty person from office; if false, their falsity should be promptly shown."

Unanimous consent was granted by both branches to the introduction of a resolution by Senator Donigan of Somerset providing for an investigation. This resolution was promptly adopted, making the procedure of the session legal.

The prosecution will be conducted by Attorney-General Pattangall and Judge Louis C. Stearns of Bangor and Leroy Haley of Biddeford will represent Sheriff Emery.

Sheriff Emery is charged with having attempted to bribe County Attorney Asa A. Richardson to permit liquor dealers in York County to sell openly without rigid inteference.

BRIGHTON RUNAWAY CROSSES COUNTRY ON THREE DOLLARS

RENO, Nev., April 3.—Sixteen-year-old Michael Ambrosi, the runaway son of James Ambrosi of No. 70 Woodford street, Brighton, told today how he had crossed the continent at a total railroad fare expense of only three dollars. He is bound for San Francisco and, though he admits he is "broke," is not a bit discouraged and is going to keep right on his way to the Coast.

Young Ambrosi, who appears no older than fourteen, and who ran away from home a month ago, jumped off the Overland Limited here and hastened to the postoffice, where he found awaiting him a letter from Miss Stella Burke, daughter of John J. Burke, connected with the George J. Fuller Lumber Company of Brighton.

MINERS ASK RECOGNITION

WILKESBARRE, April 3.—With the conferences of the miners and operators only one week off, positive proof is being received by the union leaders that only recognition of the union will satisfy the men.

To determine whether a wage increase will suit these miners, district and national leaders are sending representatives to the mass meetings of the miners to ask this question: "Do you men want a wage increase?" The answer to this question came in a direct way in the Nanticoke region where five mass meetings were held.

SAGE TEA, A SCALP TONIC, DARKENS THE HAIR, STOPS DANDRUFF AND FALLING HAIR

There is nothing new about the idea of using Sage for restoring the color of the hair. Our grandmothers kept their hair dark, glossy and abundant by the use of a simple "Sage Tea." Whenever their hair fell out or took on a dull, faded or streaked appearance, they made a brew of Sage leaves, and applied it to their hair with wonderfully beneficial effect.

Nowadays we don't have to resort to the old-time tiresome method of gathering the herbs and making the tea. This is done by skillful chemists better than we could do it ourselves; and all we have to do is to call for the ready-made product, Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, containing Sage in the proper strength, with the addition of Sulphur, another old-time scalp remedy.

This preparation gives youthful color and beauty to the hair, and is one of the best remedies you can use for dandruff, dry, feverish, itching scalp, and falling hair. Get a fifty cent bottle from your druggist to-day, and you will be surprised at the quick results. All druggists sell it, under guarantee that the money will be refunded if the remedy is not exactly as represented.

Pilgrims Outplayed by Minors

Kling to Turn the Tables Today

By L. R. MURDOCH.

Sporting Editor American.

L. R. MURDOCH

RICHMOND, Va., April 3.—It won't do for Kling's Hopefuls to drop two straight games in Richmond, so the Pilgrims' manager picked some tried pitchers to work against the Virginians in the second of the series today. A crowd planned to see today's struggle, because Richmond's fans were happy over having trimmed a major league team in the first session of the series.

With two men out and three strikes on a third, in the second innings of yesterday's affair, a storm broke loose. When it had cleared, the Virginians had five men across the plate. Kling's men took a brace and there was no more scoring for the home batters.

REMINDED OF PANICKY DAY OF 1911.

The Pilgrims tried hard to tie and nearly did it, but it's almost as pitiful to have a minor leaguer beat you by one run as by twenty. So it makes little difference if the score was 6 to 5. That one fatal session was a reminder of the panicky days of 1911, when, if one of the Boston Nationals had a fit, all had it.

With two down, Lucia, the Richmond catcher, singled and Verbout, pitcher, was given a base on one of "Scotty" Ingerton's boots of a simple low grounder.

Al Mattern promptly put three strikes on Coates, the next man up and the Virginians should have gone out then and there, giving them a total of one tally for the game.

But then came the deluge.

Rariden seldom drops a ball, and when a third strike is missed the batter usually has started for the bench before he notices, but Richmond was so eager to tally any old way that when somebody yelled "run" Coates legged it for first base. Rariden picked up the ball and could have caught the Virginian right fielder in a common canter but he had one of those hunches to peg the ball, probably just for the fun of it, and the pill sailed high over Houser's head.

When the sphere was recovered from a mud puddle, Lucia and Verbout had scored, and Cates was sitting on third sack, Mattern was sore and delivered Griffin a vicious straight one. The Virginian packed it away for two bases, scoring Coates.

Little Mascot Missing and Another Game Lost.

Flournoy then hit an easy bounder to McDonald. Mac had caught the panic and, although Griffin was within touching distance, he elected to peg to Houser to get Flournoy for the third out. Houser got the ball on a bound a mile from first and Griffin scored.

"Matty" gave Mattis another "smoker" and he tapped it for three bases sending Flournoy across the pan. These five runs ended the Virginia scoring. But it was enough.

The Pilgrims blame Little Virginia Kling for all of this. Their young mascot has given up all sorts of other pleasures to appear regularly at the ball games and Boston has won every time she was on hand. She couldn't go to Athens and the team lost to Buffalo.

Yesterday she yielded to the temptation of a moving picture show and did not show up until fifth inning, after the storm was over. When she arrived, Perdue went in and blanked the Virginians and the Pilgrims scored three runs, two of which her father was accountable for. But she was too late.

"Doc" Miller made the only other error, but it was covered up by a fast double play executed by one "Bill" Sweeney, who played a lightning game at second. Bill speared an ugly bounder, tagged Raley on the run to second and nailed Baker, the batter, at first.

He produced even a better one in the first session when he legged it beyond second, corraled what loked like a sure hit with a man on third, touched the bag, and just landed the batter at first.

The Pilgrims ran up against a live bunch in the Richmond team. This city is the life of the Virgina League and it supports a first-class minor league baseball outfit. The Virginians produced two pitchers, in Verbout and Ryan, and although Kling's men tapped them for thirteen safe ones they were effective in pinches and held Boston to five runs.

Kling Takes a Hand and Storm Is Stayed.

It looked easy for Boston at first. Sweeney walked and went to third when Mattis juggled Kaiser's single. After Miller and Jackson were retired, Houser lammed the ball to the far corner of right field, tallying both runners.

McDonald doubled in the second and Mattern singled him to third. When Sweeney hit to the pitcher, Mack tried to score and was run down between the bases.

The Pilgrims had a man on in every inning but could not score until the seventh, when Kaiser hit safely, went to second when Baker juggled Griffin's toss of Miller's bounder, reached third on a passed ball and came home on Heaton's overthrow in the effort to nail him off third.

"Noisy John" Kling took hold of things at this stage and got his men under way for a garrison finish in the eighth.

Campbell was ill in bed at the Hotel Richmond with what appeared to be bronchitis and Kaiser, who is something of a runner himself, was substituted for the fleet centerfielder. The Pilgrims missed Campbell on the bases. Mattern was a simple proposition for the Virginia batters, but "Hub" Perdue had them at his mercy.

GOSSIP OF THE BIG TRAINING CAMPS

"SMILING Ben" Hauser, the Pilgrim first sacker, looks better every day. Hauser has been indisposed off and on since his serious illness last Summer and was dull in his early work with the Pilgrims giving the Boston magnates considerable concern about first base. He took a two day's layoff and has returned much fresher.

* * *

IF Hauser speeds up, the first base problem may be solved for good. He is a fence buster when he's right and looks like a level headed first baseman with the advantage with a port-side pegging arm.

* * *

M'DONALD'S arm is bothering him and yesterday Kirke was sent into the Richmond game in place of the regular third baseman.

* * *

CONNIE MACK seems to have developed a good recruit pitcher in Brown, off whom the Quakers gathered but six hits the other day.

* * *

"ALEXANDER, THE GREAT" looks better than ever, despite reports to the contrary. Nobody has scored off the Quaker King yet.

* * *

IT looks like the familiar figure of Donie Bush will be missed in the great Tiger series at Fenway Park this Summer.

* * *

BOSTON "Fans" are disappointed at Hughey Jennings' announcement that he and his shortstop can't come to terms and that Vitt, a recruit will take Bush's place.

* * *

THIS Vitt, by the way seems to be some slugger. Detroit men say he has shown the best batting of any of the Tigers in the Spring work which is giving the youngster a top-notch compliment, when you look over Cobb's, Delehanty's, Crawford's, Gainer's and Stanage's batting averages.

* * *

HAROLD GROVER, the Rockport pitcher, who was tried out by the Pittsburg Pirates, has been let go to the Hartford Club of the Connecticut League.

* * *

STREET, the Yankees' new catcher, is doing great work behind the bat, and it looks as if the club made an excellent move in getting him. He has been throwing well and has been a big help to the pitchers.

* * *

McINTYRE, of the White Sox outfield, is still out, but the club owners are not worrying as they are confident he will be on hand when the season opens. He has been playing the game down in Cuba.

* * *

HARRY DAVIS, the Cleveland manager, and owner Charley Somers have not given up the idea of securing Moriarty from the Tigers.

* * *

STEVE White of Dorchester, the Princeton star and former Red Sox, has come across with his contract and will leave soon to join the Jersey City team.

* * *

PAT Flaherty is among the missing at Anniston, Ala., where the Rochester team is training. There is some mystery attached to his failure to report, despite all the assuring words of Manager Ganzel that Pat is expected on any train.

* * *

STOVALL seems to be the real backbone of the St. Louis Browns this year. The followers of the Wallace team are confident that the club will be up in the running this season.

* * *

GEORGE Bell, formerly of Brooklyn, has notified Manager McGinnity of Newark, that he will be unable to play this season on account of having had a floating cartilage removed from his knee.

* * *

JACK Sheridan was among the visitors at the Giants' training camp one day last week and while he declared he was among the retired he still has a hankering to get back into harness.

* * *

"LONG George" McConnell, of the New York Highlanders, has developed a very fine "spitter." He has nice control of this freak ball and can make it break in, out or down.

* * *

STIVETTS—every Boston ball fan knows or has heard of him—is anxious to have the Pilgrims give his club a try out. The once great Boston pitcher is still doing business with a club down in Penn.

* * *

JIMMY Callahan has three new men in his infield who are performing great stunts, both in the field and at the bat. The new men are Fournier, on first, Rath, on second, and Weaver, in short field.

* * *

PEACHES Graham, the former Boston star, now with the Phillies, is becoming a full-fledged farmer and all he talks about during the rest hours at camp is life down on a farm.

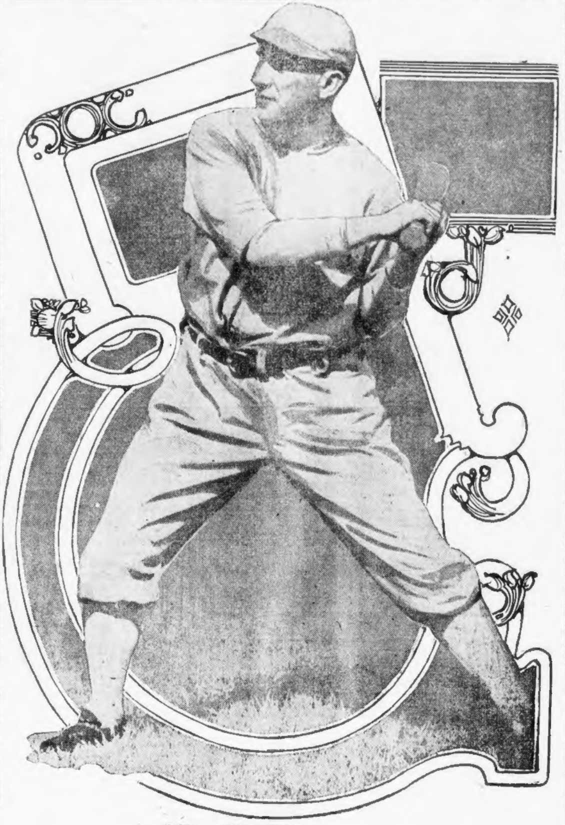
Miller Best Hitter in League, Says Ward

Picks Outfielder to Beat Out Wagner

"DOC" MILLER, PILGRIM OUTFIELDER, WHOM WARD PICKS TO LEAD THE LEAGUE



DOC MILLER

"Noisy John" Kling Anxious to Beat Clark Griffith and His Senators.

Miller, the hard-hitting right fielder of the Pilgrims, will lead the National League in batting this year is the opinion of John M. Ward, the president of the Boston National League team.

The president of the Pilgrims is pleased with his outfield, and feels certain that his hard-hitting trio in the outer garden will break up many games this year.

"No, sir," said Ward today, "I would not trade my outfield for any in the league. I believe that they are the best hitting combination and all three of the players are sure men on batted balls and can cover a world of territory.

"I pick Miller to head the league in batting this season and I also expect Jackson and Campbell to be close on the heels of the right fielder, and it would not be surprising to me if the three men were among the first ten hitters at the end of the season. I expect Miller to beat out Wagner this season."

President Ward has been busy every minute since he arrived in Boston yesterday. He had many call on him on business and he also had to make a hurried trip to the Walpole street grounds to learn how the work was progressing.

President Ward will leave this afternoon for Washington, where he will look over the Pilgrims in the first real game of the season when the Pilgrims tackle the Senators.

"Noisy John" Kling is out to defeat Clark Griffith and his tribe and he will send his best team onto the field.

Hugh McGrath Gets Thanks of Managers

Hugh C. McGrath, who took hold of the Greater Boston A. A. U. Basketball League when disruption threatened it at the middle of the season, has received the thanks of the managers of the Quincy A. A., St. Joseph C. T. A. S., St. Mary's C. A. and the St. Alphonsus A. A., for the excellent way in which he handled the league during the closing weeks of the season.

William H. Flynn, Joseph V. Comerford, John F. Fitzgerald and Thomas J. McMackin, the four managers, speak highly of the way Mr. McGrath handled the situation, and says that he deserves their full measure of thanks.

His interest in the basketball situation served to renew the faith of the basketball managers and the players themselves in the efficacy of the N. E. A. A. U. management, and they hope that another season will find him directing the affairs of the association in the same efficient manner.

Mortier of France Wins Billiard Play

PARIS, April 3.—The final game in the international amateur billiard tournament was won by Mortier of France, who beat Darantiere of France, 400 to 156, thus winning the tournament and the challenge cup.

The final order is as follows: Mortier, France, eight games won, one lost; Artus, France, six won, three lost; Danatiere, France; Morier, Belgium; Agassa, Switzerland; Poensgen, Germany; Roudil, France, each five won, four lost; Poggenburg, United States, three won, six lost; Labouret, France, two won seven lost; De Pree, France, one won, eight lost.

No Baseball Games for B. C. This Season

Baseball has been dropped at Boston College, for this season at least. The reason given by Manager Dennis A. Dooley, '12, is that there is no suitable field available for practice or the playing of home games.

The athletic grounds on Massachusetts avenue were recently sold, as they have for some years past been unsatisfactory, and it was expected that the grounds at the new college at University Heights, Newton, would be in shape by the opening of the baseball season.

The announcement, although unavoidable, is a great disappointment to the students and the alumni, who are not favorable to the idea of the college not being represented on the diamond.

The good work done by last year's team, most of which is available this year, and the promising array of new men, gave indications that an unusually fast team would wear the maroon and gold this year.

Johnson-Flynn Bout May Be Called Off

CHICAGO, April 3.—Because Jack Curley failed to appear for a conference with Jack Johnson, at which it was expected the place for holding the fight between Flynn and Johnson was to be decided, the negro champion said today that the match may be called off. He is becoming restive and is considering signing articles offered by Tom O'Rourke to meet a number of "hopes."

96 COURT ST. OPEN EVENINGS

MANY JOIN THE NEW PILGRIM A. A.

The popularity of the new Pilgrim Athletic Association, which is to occupy the Boston Arena, among sport followers, is evidenced by the large number of applications already received at the offices of the association. In the past two days a few over three hundred applications have been sent in, and some of the best men in Greater Boston are among those who have signified their desire to join.

The honor of the first application and the first member goes to Colonel William A. Gaston, president of the National Shawmut Bank, who is a keen follower of all branches of sports. The application list also includes other men, lawyers, doctors and business men of the very best class.

The association has opened downtown offices at room 734, Old South Building, in order to accommodate prospective members, and for the next two weeks these will be kept open every evening until 10:30.

The association is receiving entries for the ten-mile open amateur handicap cross country run which is to be held on Saturday afternoon, April 13. This will be the inaugural athletic event of the Pilgrim Athletic Association and the entries already received assure its success. It will be a tryout for the men who run in the B. A. A. Marathon.

Preparations for placing the Arena building in shape for the Pilgrim A. A. quarters are being rushed ahead. The ice is being rapidly melted and then the floor surface will be cleared. A track will then be laid out and pool and billiard tables will be installed.

DARTMOUTH LINEUP FOR COLUMBIA GAME

HANOVER, N. H., April 3.—Coach Wood of the Dartmouth baseball squad has announced the lineup of the opening game with Columbia, April 12, at New York as follows: Bennett 1b, Donahue 2b, Rollins 3b, Fahey s.s., Captain Daley c.f., Hoban r.f. and Gammons l.f., Alden or Spillane c., Morey or Hallett p.

The squad making the Spring trip has been cut to fifteen men. Kimball will be utility man.

DONIE BUSH WILL NOT START THE SEASON

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 3.—Manager Hughey Jennings of the Tigers announced that Shortstop Donie Bush, who has refused to sign his 1912 contract because the salary terms did not suit him, would not be in the lineup in the opening game this year. Jennings has given up hope that Bush will sign. Even if he does, Jennings says, Vitt will play short in the opening series, for Vitt is making good both in fielding and hitting. He is the batting star of the Tigers this spring.

BIG MAINE SALMON SENT TO PRESIDENT

BANGOR, Me., April 3.—An eleven-pound Penobscot river salmon, the second to be taken from the Bangor pool since the opening of the season, has been shipped to President Taft.

The fish was caught by Karl Anderson and he sent it to the President. Anderson caught the first salmon of the season Monday afternoon, maintaining a record which he has held for several years past.

The first fish, a fifteen-pounder, was sent to New Jersey.

RALPH GOOD ELECTED COACH AT MALDEN

Ralph N. Good of Colby University has been elected coach of athletics at Malden High School. Good will take charge of the work next Fall and will be the permanent coach. Joe Collins, who was elected a short while ago, will have charge of the athletic work until next June.

TIGER CREW IN HARVARD RACE

The announcement by the Harvard crew management that a triangular race for eight-oared crews would be held on the Charles River Basin on May 23, with Harvard, Cornell and Princeton as the contestants, was received with a great welcome by rowing enthusiasts today.

Harvard and the Tigers have not met on the water since 1874. In that year these old rivals met in the Intercollegiate regatta on Lake Saratoga. In 1884 Princeton abandoned rowing altogether, following a race with Yale, and did not resume the sport until last year, when she entered a triangular race with Yale and Cornell on the new Carnegie Lake at Princeton.

The completion of this artificial lake gave Princeton adequate rowing facilities, and since then the Tigers have been eager to resume crew relations with the Crimson.

In the race on Carnegie Lake last Spring Princeton left Yale in the background, and pulled close to the winning Cornell eight throughout the race.

Considering the Tiger crew's lack of experience, it showed surprising strength. With this fact in mind they are looked upon as worthy rvals for Cornell and Harvard in a triangular contest.

Cornell and Harvard have met in seven dual races thus far, alternating between Lake Cayuga and the Charles River, and of this number Harvard has won only one.

Invariably these races are extremely close, and with the advent of the Tigers the contest on the Charles should furnish one of the most interesting and exciting crew races of the season.

The race for freshman crews on May 23, will be confined to Harvard and Cornell. The youngsters will also row over the regular 1¾-mile course.

Maloney Awarded to Brockton Club

BROCKTON, April 3.—The Brockton New England League players are scheduled to report today and on the eve of their arrival President John W. McCue received the glad news from Secretary J. H. Farrell of the National Board to the effect that Patrick Maloney, an outfielder, has been awarded to the Brockton club, dismissing the claim of the Worcester owners.

Maloney is an outfielder, and has played in the Mill League. He was signed by Galveston of the Texas League, but failed to report and was suspended. Brockton purchased him last Winter from Galveston, but in the meanwhile he had signed with Worcester, the contract not being valid as he was not a free agent.

Rain Again Holds Up Red Sox

Weather Jinx Has Its Inning

By H. B. SCHULTZ.

Special American Correspondent with the Red Sox.

HARLEIGH SCHULTZ

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., April 3. There's a big question mark written all around the plans for the rest of the Red Sox training trip. Its another of the snags to be laid at the feet of the weather jinx in the camp, though this time it is doubtless more the fault of the hoodoo up in Cincinnati. The jinx's score for one day is three different decisions as to the time of folding tents and treking eastward in the direction of home.

In the morning it was decided to break camp tonight so as to be certain to get as far as Cincinnati and not get tied up with any Mississippi freshet.

PLAN TO MAKE START TOMORROW.

At noon it was decided to depart on Friday and arrive in Cincinnati in time for an exhibition game with the Reds Saturday.

The third and just now final plan is for the team to leave here tomorrow afternoon reaching Cincinnati on Friday. Treasurer McRoy, at present expects to carry this out, and has wired Garry Herrmann, asking if it will be possible for Red Sox to secure other grounds in Cincinnati for general practice purposes.

The new ball park of the Reds is as yet unfinished, and it may be that the weather will further retard the work of completing the new diamond, and possibly another change will come in the program of Red Sox the last day of the week.

Friday's game in Cincinnati has already been cancelled as a result of a telegram from Herrmann that two days' work would be necessary to finish the ball grounds in that city. Herrmann added that if the rain kept up, there was little likelihood of pulling off games either Saturday or Sunday, but said he was hopeful of better weather.

McRoy is anxious to put the team in Cincinnati in time for a workout Friday afternoon and Saturday morning. If the weather is at all promising, the Saturday and Sunday games, particularly the last contest, would be certain to draw large crowds, which would mean receipts large enough to go far toward defraying the expenses of the entire training trip.

Yannigan Scrubs and Regulars Battle.

Yesterday, after the clouds that had been hanging around for two days, had given the sun a chance, the team had a workout, but on the Whitington park field, the home of the Pirates. Barney Dreyfuss volunteered the use of the grounds, so Manager Stahl decided to sandwich in a three-hour practice between the workouts of the Pittsburgs.

The last hour was given over to a six-inning game between the Regulars and a scrub team made up of the remnants of the Yannigan makeup.

There was plenty of pepper on both sides. The Regulars put it all over the scrubs, 6 to 0, and the why of it was that Captain Engle had to recruit his depleted ranks from the pitching staff. Hageman and Leonard went into the outfield, Bill Carrigan was called on to fill a vacancy at third [illegible] and the veteran catcher [illegible]

Joe Wood [illegible] the Sox [illegible] twirls he has in stock.

Buck O'Brien did the tossing for the losers, and it wasn't his fault that the six innings spelled defeat.

Wagner went [illegible] at short. One of the features was [illegible] drive over centrefield fence, which would have been good for a home run anywhere.

O'Toole Brothers May Be Opposing Pitchers.

The dopesters seem to have been wrong in picking two youngsters of the pitching staff who are slated to go. Hageman, who has been mentioned as destined to get the [illegible], is expected by Stahl to show something good when he gets a real chance.

Stahl also speaks well of Hugh Bedient's pitching. Leonard's work has also pleased him, but it is understood that the management feels a year seasoning in a minor league might be the proper thing.

Bushelman's work has not been so promising as that of the other youngsters, [illegible]

[illegible] game between Pittsburg and the St. Paul team of the American Association. It is possible that in a second game tomorrow Marty O'Toole will be on the job for pitching for Pittsburg and that his brother, Mike, will twirl for the St. Pauls.

If this pans out it will be the first time that the two brothers have ever pitched against one another.

In a workout yesterday Marty's arm was below par [illegible] to the very hot [illegible] team in connection with their training. The Pirates bathe in water 25 degrees hotter than that in which the Red Sox plunge, and the result is a temporary weakening which ends once the hot bathing is stopped.

Except for the baseball players, the hotel here is pretty well cleared out, the season being on its fag end. The Red Sox are anxious to get [illegible] move and will be happy when they are finally berthed in a train bound for Boston and home.

WORLD CHAMPIONS WIN A GAME AT LAST

PHILADELPHIA, April 3.—A home run by Captain Murphy, driving two men in ahead of him in the third inning of the third game between the world's champions and Phillies, was practically the quietus blow which sent the local National Leaguers down to their first defeat, by a score of 7 to 6. The Phillies used three pitchers, Brennan going five innings, Masters, a recruit from the O. and P. League, three rounds, and Shultz one. Barring the third inning, Brennan did the best work.

GALLANT AND GRIFFIN DRAW

By JACK CONWAY.

Old Charley Griffin can still fight. Charley's head may be bald and he may also be minus a [illegible] of his teeth, but the veteran Australian lightweight can still put up a rugged battle.

Griffin fought a fast ten-round draw with Gilbert Gallant of Chelsea at the Central A. C. last night. And any boxer, be he old or young, who can hold the Gallant of today on even terms isn't to be considered a dead one.

[illegible]

Gallant Had Best of Early Milling.

Gallant had the best of the milling in the opening rounds of the contest [illegible] Griffin to the ground.

On several occasions the Chelsea lad was guilty of hitting low and also of pushing. Some of the spectators believed that this was done intentionally, but they were wrong.

Gallant is yet "green" and he is a natural fighter. In his eagerness to [illegible] becomes wild and [illegible]

In his early fights as a professional this fault was even more glaring than it is now, but by careful training he is gradually overcoming it.

Griffin did his best work in the last four rounds. He kept his left hand working overtime, beating Gallant to the punch.

Gilbert devoted the greater part of his time to hammering away at his opponent's stomach, and when the gong sounded at the end of the tenth round, Charley's stomach was in pretty bad condition.

[illegible] Kenney of Cambridge and Young [illegible] of the North End [illegible] draw [illegible] of the evening [illegible] advantage [illegible] was content to jab away with his left.

Kenney Earned Draw By His Fast Finish.

Kenney livened things up in the last two rounds and landed some good [illegible] the least. Kenney's work in these two rounds was what earned him a draw.

The first preliminary was between Young McKenna of Lawrence and [illegible] of Cambridge. McKenna's [illegible] tossed up the sponge in the fourth round. This was a good fight while it lasted.

[illegible] the third round arrived McKenna was [illegible]. He fought a game [illegible] less fight until his seconds tossed the sponge into the ring.

The other preliminary was between Young Reno of the North End and "Flat-foot" Lorenzo, who claims that he comes from New York. The milling was so fast [illegible] that the writer fell asleep in the second round [illegible] was impossible to confirm this report.

WEIGHT THROWERS CAN USE EITHER HAND

NEW YORK, April 3.—In order to avoid any possible misunderstanding at the Olympic Games Secretary James E. Sullivan of the American committee some time ago requested the Swedish Olympic [illegible] to forward full particulars in relation to the rules for the weight throwing contests (right and left hand), and has received a letter from Kristian Hellstrom, secretary, stating that in these contests all the competitors make their efforts with one hand and then with the other. The best effort with each hand will be considered and added together to determine the result.

NO. DORCHESTER A. A. AIDS OLYMPIC FUND

"Herbie" Coles, president of the North Dorchester A. A., announces that the club has contributed $25 to the American Olympic fund. The North Dorchester A. A. is the leading club of New England in furnishing clever distance runners. Clarence De Mar, winner of the last B. A. A. Marathon run, and Festus McHen, who finished second in this memorable race, are both members of the club, while other high class distance runners are Tom Lilley, Jimmy Henigan and Saklund.

New England Stars Who May Represent U. S. at Stockholm

FRANZ MARCEAU

THE AMERICAN will print from day to day a series of articles telling what New England athletes stand a chance of being aboard the steamer Finland when the vessel leaves its moorings in New York harbor in June bearing the athletes who will wear the Stars and Stripes in the Olympic games at Sweden. This is the sixth of the series of articles. There are some thirty New England stars who stand a chance of being sent to the games. By following the series the readers will know the history of each runner in the attempt to bring back athletic laurels to this country.

And you [illegible] in [illegible] as Jean tore her frail husband into shreds. It was the [illegible] old [illegible] that had been used for centuries to show that virtue is a one-sided quality.

In the past [illegible] was the women who needed virtue, but in Mr. DeMille's play the [illegible] is on the defensive. Jean tossed Rollo into the arms of Florence, and the play ended with a broken home.

Serious? Yes, in every line and every situation. But the reversed situations made it, as Mr. DeMille intended, a rollicking farce. Yet under the surface might be detected the well-directed and pointed satire of the author.

The bitter moments into which Rollo found himself ensnared awakened the sympathy you had often given to some heroine who had made one mistake and was lost. You had tears for Rollo, but they were tears of laughter.

With Miss Nash in the company were Joseph Jefferson, who gave Rollo a distinctly feminine touch, and Miss Minnette [illegible] who played the false friend with [illegible]

Miss Nash [illegible] a woman about town, was [illegible] the bounder and [illegible] has [illegible] to carry her [illegible] straight to the audience.

By this you will see that, with a brilliant playwright to encourage her, woman is not to be despised.

There was [illegible] than a grain of truth [illegible] "In 1999," which gave it a distinc[illegible] its own. But you laughed yourself into good humor as you followed it ingenuous story.

Girl's Bitten Cheek Arouses North End

The too strenuous love-making of Geerolino Barberio to Carolina Mauro of No. [illegible] Harris street resulted today in the [illegible] of the man on a charge of assault and battery upon the girl, and of [illegible] brother, Luigi, on a charge of assault and battery with intent to kill [illegible] loaded revolver.

Married Life in the Third Year

No. 28—The Dinner Celebrating Warren's Return Is a Most Expensive One

By MABEL HERBERT URNER.

"HOW about a [illegible] guinea hen?" asked Warren genially "That [illegible] pretty good—doesn't it?"

Helen gave a hasty glance at the dinner card before her. "Broiled guinea hen—$1.25-$2.00 Two dollars for the roast alone—without any vegetables or salad! Oh, it was going to be a frightfully expensive dinner

"Well, how about [illegible]" persisted Warren. "[illegible] guinea hen, don't you?"

"Oh, yes And then in a low voice so the waiter couldn't hear But isn't that high, dear two dollars and they don't serve anything with it?"

"Well what if it is? I guess we can afford a decent dinner tonight. Here waiter! Give us that broiled guinea hen—and see [illegible] Bring with it some green peas and artichokes. I want plain [illegible] sauce with that artichoke—not Hollandaise And bring a portion of romaine. Serve it undressed in a bowl—I'll dress it here Now let's see your wine card."

The waiter hurried off and Warren leaned back with a sigh of content.

Good to Be Back

"Well, it seems decidedly good to get back again. I tell you, it takes a couple of months out West to make a man appreciate Boston. It's the only place where they know how to do things right."

Helen was vaguely hoping that he would say something about the pleasure of being at home again—not because of the city, but because of their being together again Since his return yesterday he had been unusually kind—even though it was a somewhat tolerant kindness. And Helen, ever ready to believe in his love for her, was now eagerly awaiting some word of affection

Several times she has "made" him "say things." Her "Oh, it IS wonderful to be together again, isn't it, dear?" had been frequent. And he would answer, with a certain indulgent tolerance, "Of course it is, kitten." From him this was so much that Helen was now encouraged to want more.

"Why, hello, Curtis, old man! Thought you were out West," and a tall man in gray strode up to the table.

"How are you, Stanton?" rising and shaking hands cordially. "I got back yesterday. I believe you have met Mrs. Curtis."

"Yes," bowing courteously. "I've had that pleasure"

"Won't you join us?" beckoning to a waiter for another chair

"Thank you no I've just dined. And I've an appointment with Hartwell at eight. By the way, he was telling me about that Bennington deal. I understand you put that over."

"Oh, yes, closed that up Saturday. Pretty tough job Clarkson is a mighty hard man to handle"

"So I've heard. But Hartwell said you were just the man to handle him Well, I must be getting on. Drop in at the office tomorrow if you can. There's a few things I'd like to talk over

Filled with Business

"Stanton's a mighty nice fellow," said Warren when he had gone "But if he wants to see me—he'll have to come to my office. I'm too busy just now to run around looking up anybody. Oh, that makes me think [illegible] from his pocket and making a note on the back of an envelope "I've got to call up Walter's tomorrow about the Dwyer case. And I mustn't forget to write back to Hutchinson Let's see—I think I made a memorandum of that."

With a thrilled sense of pride Helen watched him as he turned over the letters and cards. Never had he seemed so much the alert man of business [illegible] of affairs [illegible] this deal had meant to him It had given him a certain assurance, an atmosphere of confidence Always he had been a dominating personality but now he seemed more so Impulsively Helen leaned over the table.

"Oh, Warren, I can see now it must have been a very big thing—this Bennington deal And oh, I was so proud when Mr. Stanton said you were the only man who could have handled Mr Clarkson"

"Well I'd like to have seen anybody else tackle him," complacently "But I don't want to be up against anything like that again. Six weeks was just about enough. With mighty little money and the [illegible] uncertainty of it all—I tell you it was as near purgatory as I want to get

"Oh, with anxious sympathy, "I know it MUST have been hard. And I'm afraid my letters worried you. But oh, Warren, if you'd only explained instead of writing as you did Your letters were so harsh. Oh, dear, I wonder if you knew how cruelly harsh they were!"

"Now let's not begin that! We're here for a pleasant evening—aren't we? And we're not going to have any post-mortems The thing to do is to look forward not back It's about time you learned that."

"Oh, I know—I didn't mean to bring up anything that was unpleasant. Oh, dear I'm so glad to put it all aside and forget it and begin all over again."

Carving the Hen

"That's it! That's the way to talk That's something like it. Now here comes the dinner And it's going to be a rattling good one

The waiter brought on the guinea hen and raised the silver cover for Warren's inspection

"Shall I serve it, sir?"

"No put it right down here—I'll serve it myself And get a larger bowl for that salad—I can't dress it in that. And bring about a teaspoonful of dry English mustard."

Helen watched every movement of his strong, capable hands as he carved the guinea hen. There was no one like him! A dozen times since they had been sitting there she had told herself that There was no one to whom the waiters gave such attentive service, no one who had such an air of knowing what he wanted and getting it

"Pretty good guinea hen, isn't it? Much better flavor than chicken—and this is a particularly [illegible]"

"Oh, yes, it's [illegible]" murmured Helen, who was thinking of everything but the food. Just to be with him again, to hear his voice, to sit across the table from him—she could have eaten everything and thought it delicious

And it was a very happy dinner [illegible] of the wine [illegible] Warren [illegible] and told her [illegible] of his trip, explained to her more [illegible] about the deal, talked of the [illegible] that he had made and his plans for investing part of it

As they left the restaurant he motioned for a taxicab

"Oh, no, no, dear; we can get a car just around the corner."

[illegible] natured [illegible] I think we've [illegible] night—eh?

"Oh, yes, dear, but it will be almost two dollars for a taxi, and I'd so much rather have the money any other way

When they left their car at the corner Warren drew her toward the brilliantly [illegible]

"Let's stop here and blow in the two dollars we saved on the taxi [illegible]" as she hesitated "What do you want?"

"Oh Warren" flushing slightly "I don't need anything just now

"Yes you do leading the way to the toilet counter "A woman always likes [illegible] Now which [illegible]"

There [illegible] blue and white [illegible] toilet [illegible]

More Expense.

"Oh, I should like a hand mirror," murmured Helen "I cracked mine some time ago, and someone said I'd have bad luck till I got a new one."

"All right. I don't give a hang for your superstition but a hand mirror is just the [illegible] young man, let's see that [illegible]"

"Three dollars and fifty cents," said the clerk [illegible]

"That's nice," murmured Helen "But haven't you anything smaller—not quite so expensive?"

"No, that's all right," interrupted Warren, with an air of affluence "If you like that one—that's the one we'll take."

[illegible] later Helen [illegible] the [illegible] broken one [illegible] superstition [illegible]

Baby had Frightful Eczema on Face. Itched, Scratched, Bled. Over $500 Spent in Vain on Treatments. RESINOL Cured Him

262 Lincoln avenue, Cliftondale, Mass.
March 21, 1912.

Our baby boy had eczema on his little face frightfully, from the time he was four weeks old until he was a year and a half old. He scratched, itched and bled, and had his hands tied for a year, more or less. We spent over $500 on treatments. We had used ——, —— and ——, and, in fact, tried everything but Resinol. Many of the remedies proved all right for the time being, but the trouble always returned.

Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment were at last recommended to me. I used them morning and night; certainly they began doing good, until now our child is cured and has a clear and beautiful complexion. I have recommended Resinol to many, many people. Of course, now I use only Resinol Soap. (Signed) MRS. H. S. DEAN.

Resinol Ointment stops itching instantly, and with the aid of Resinol Soap is the ideal healing application for eczema and other skin eruptions, pimples, [illegible] scalds, sores, boils, ulcers and itching, inflamed piles. Lillian Lorraine's Beauty Secrets for Girls

The Trials of Sweet Sixteen

SWEET SIXTEEN IS VERY SENSITIVE AND THIS VERY QUALITY IN HER NATURE MAKES HER MORE REFINED AND MORE CAREFUL OF THE FEELINGS OF OTHERS, WHILE ON THE OTHER HAND, IT COSTS HER CONSTANT AGONY.

SWEET SIXTEEN IS ALWAYS GETTING HER FEELINGS HURT, AND SUFFERING MORE OR LESS IN SILENCE.

TRY TO BE REASONABLE, AND WHEN PEOPLE SEEM TO BE UNKIND GIVE THEM THE BENEFIT OF THE DOUBT.

DON'T BE SELF-CONSCIOUS, AND DON'T PRETEND.

CULTIVATE THE ART OF BEING A GOOD LISTENER.

FORGET ABOUT YOURSELF.

WHEN YOU DON'T KNOW WHAT TO DO, DO NOTHING.

THAT IS THE BEST POSSIBLE ADVICE FOR SWEET SIXTEEN IN SOCIETY.

This girlish pose by Miss Lorraine was made by her especially for the picture which accompanies her article today on "Sweet Sixteen."

With her winning smile Miss Lorraine endeavors to show how much prettier a girl appears at the bashful age of sixteen by avoiding a self-conscious feeling.

Miss Lorraine's advice in this respect is:

"Don't be conscious of your hands and feet.

"They are no more conspicuous, nor are they any larger than those of other girls.

"The moment you are conscious of your self you will be awkward.

"So forget yourself and think of the others.

"Do it deliberately."

By LILLIAN LORRAINE

A GIRL who signs herself "Sweet Sixteen" has written me a pathetic little letter full of the self-depreciation which is one of the phases we all go through in our early teens.

According to this "Sweet Sixteen," hers is the bashful, awkward age

She would love to look and act grown up, but in company all she ever can manage to do is to blush and her conversation is limited to stammering answers, mostly monosyllabic at that.

Furthermore, her complexion is "simply horrid," and she doesn't know how to do her hair—which only curls a little bit and not nicely over her forehead as it should

Will I "please, please" tell her how to overcome all her trials and tribulations?

I can't resist your "please, please," poor little girl, and as most of your troubles are more or less imaginary, I shall do what I can to help you, especially as I remember quite well going through a similar stage of development, when I thought myself quite hideous and knew I should never, never be even passably good-looking

A Common Complaint

Every girl suffers that way for a few days or months or maybe years of her life. She is fortunate to have it over with early, for this period of self-depreciation is like the measles—soon over and sooner forgotten, but very violent at the time

Let us begin at the beginning Sweet Sixteen is very sensitive and this very quality in her nature makes her more refined and more careful of the feelings of others, while on the other hand it costs her constant agony. She is always getting her own feelings hurt and suffering more or less in silence.

A little common sense, my dear, is just as good at your age as it is later in life and you can't begin too early to get a sensible, healthy outlook on things.

Try and be reasonable, and when people seem to be unkind give them the benefit of the doubt. Don't wilt like a faded or abused flower until you really are abused.

No girl who is too sensitive is going to be a popular young woman when she is grown up

The too, too sensitive girl always reminds me of those stringy-looking plants that grow up without any sunshine and seem unable to hold their heads up.

Of course you are at the bashful age. You don't know much about yourself or anything else, and you are keenly conscious of the fact that grown-up young ladies have a steady flow of brilliant conversation.

Suppose you simply admit to yourself that you know little or nothing, but that you have average intelligence You got through high school all right, didn't you?

Don't be self-conscious—and don't pretend.

Just say to yourself: "I don't know much, but I can find out what other people know."

Cultivate the art of being a good listener. Until you know something to talk about, let others talk. You will be popular in no time.

When you go out, especially to those parties which terrify you so, try to have your dress just as nice as possible, your hands well manicured, your hair tidy and becomingly arranged. Then leave your clothes alone and forget about yourself.

When you don't know what to do, do nothing. That is the best possible advice for Sweet Sixteen in society

How to Cure Blushing

As for blushing, if your digestion is good, deep breathing exercises will overcome a tendency to blush too frequently, and you ought to avoid highly-spiced foods, tea and coffee, which are apt to make the face red if one is inclined that way, and are not good for you anyhow.

Don't be conscious of your hands and feet. They are no more conspicuous nor are they larger than those of the other girls.

The moment you are conscious of yourself you will be awkward. So forget yourself and think of the others. Do it deliberately

As to your hair, Try and arrange it in the simplest style. It will undoubtedly suit you better, and you want to get everything about you in such a condition of perfection that you don't have to worry about it.

Don't wear false hair or "rats" or too many bows or combs or anything that will make you conspicuous of your appearance or that might fall off or show

Keep your hair very glossy by brushing it a great deal and curl your hair with water or a little sugar water.

Very little sugar, say one lump to a small glass of water. Wear a small "bang" if that is becoming.

There are many simple remedies for pimples. One of the simplest is plain zinc salve or vaseline, which can usually be found in the family medicine closet.

Giving up candy and pickles has done more to cure bad complexions than almost anything else.

Outdoor exercise and plenty of sleep sometimes are all that is needed.

On the other hand, it often happens that girls of sixteen suffer from bad complexions because of poor circulation or anaemia.

When the rest of the health improves the complexion will clear up, too.

A Trial Courtship

By DOROTHY DIX.

THE newspapers contain an interesting account of a young couple who have entered upon a trial courtship with a view to getting a line on each other's qualifications for [illegible] husband or wife, [illegible] before marriage how they are likely to suit one another instead of waiting [illegible] this out when it is too late, as [illegible]

According to the story, the young man has gone to spend three days in the home of the girl's mother with the full understanding that he is to pop the question at the end of that time if he is satisfied with his observations of the young lady, and that she is to accept him if she is also pleased with him Otherwise no wedding bells for them.

He is to watch her method of keeping house, sample her cooking, and study her ways She is to observe if he is handy about the house, if he is a good provider, and to take note of little manners and peculiarities that will tip her off as to his desirability as a life partner.

Good in Theory

The theory of the trial courtship is good but it will fail of real results because the execution will be faulty [illegible] both parties to it will be [illegible] as every man is when he is courting and every girl is when she is trying to capture a man Nature makes them put the best foot foremost and exhibit to each other the most charming side of their characters, just as it makes the male bird strut and plume itself [illegible] in Spring

It's dollars to doughnuts that the girl in this case, aware that her sweetheart's appraising eyes are upon her, will come down to breakfast of a morning in the neatest and trimmest shirtwaist that she has, and with her hair marcelled to the roots; that she will work her fingers to the bone cooking up everything [illegible] the place, and give a lifelike [illegible] of a Household Angel that would catch any man's fancy

It is also a cinch that the man on trial will go through his best paces, too. He will swear that he adores helping to wash the dishes after a hard day's work; that he will declare that he isn't particular about his food, and wouldn't want HIS wife to bother much about the [illegible] and that he will exhibit the patience of Job and the amiability of a saint when meals are not on time

These anti-nuptial exhibitions of angelic dispositions, however, are not fair samples of the real thing, and if any young couple is really in earnest about trying to find out beforehand what they are [illegible] to get in matrimony instead of [illegible] the general custom of taking the [illegible] with eyes shut, they could make a trial engagement of some actual value

If, for instance, a girl wants to test the quality of a man's affection for her let her appear at breakfast with her hair slicked back into a knot, the size of a walnut, and with a loose, comfortable working dress on. That's the way she looks at home when there's no company and the way she will look when she's married and has to wrestle with teething babies, and cooking stoves that won't cook Any man that will pop the question when a woman is looking her worst has got the kind of love that's all wool and a yard wide, and that won't shrink in the wash of everyday life.

A Sure Test.

Again if she wants to find out what sort of a disposition he has got, let her set him down to a meal of heavy bread, and watery potatoes, and observe whether his amiability under such circumstances has a natural, spontaneous ring or is forced. That's the way to judge whether he's All Heart, or mostly Stomach.

If she wants to test his patience let her keep him waiting for three-quarters of an hour every time they go anywhere together. If he can calmly compose himself to reading the paper while she pins on her hat in forty-seven different ways, instead of charging up and down the parlor floor like a caged hyena, she will know for sure that he is a philosopher, and an optimist who will always be Little Sunshine in the home.

If a man wants to find out how much a girl really thinks of him, let him appear before her with a three days' beard on his face. Any woman who can see a romantic [illegible] man has got the life-everlasting brand of affection that nothing will [illegible]

If he wants to ascertain what sort of a disposition she has got, let him refrain from telling her that she is the most wonderful and beautiful creature on earth, and call her attention to some of her [illegible] Any of us can be amiable when we are being fanned with hot air, but it [illegible] to have our weak [illegible] keep a strangle hold on our tempers

[illegible] if I were a man, before I ever [illegible] any lady's board bill for life, I'd give her a sample of my real disposition [illegible] she's got to put up with for [illegible] three hundred and sixty-[illegible] of the year I'd rather go to see her when I was tired and nerve racked and grouchy, and disagreeable, and [illegible] how she handled me. If she had enough sense and tact to get me into the chair I liked best, and not [illegible] me until after I had my dinner [illegible] good and comfortable, [illegible] make any difference [illegible] at the office so [illegible] I had [illegible] to come home to, why I'd marry her on the spot for fear I might consider

[illegible] never noticed my mood, [illegible] began telling [illegible] when I had more [illegible] own, if she [illegible] to drag [illegible] rest [illegible] hat and [illegible] I could to get away from [illegible] could lure me to the altar

Oh, a trial courtship might be made a most useful institution, if it were worked right

Taken In

"YES" said the quiet little man in the corner, as the conversation turned to sport, "I've had a good deal of experience in [illegible] cycling, etc."

"Ever had any luck?" asked an athletic [illegible] man

"[illegible] once took the gold cup for ten [illegible]"

[illegible] the other

[illegible] took six cups; in fact, [illegible] offered."

"Now look here, master," said the athlete, "you can't expect me to believe that"

"It's a solemn fact nevertheless," answered the little man. "You see, I'm a photographer."

PLEXO GREASELESS-CLEANSING CREAMS

Science is knowledge systematized.

If you get at all the facts, and then make the right use of your knowledge, you will have a beautiful complexion. That is practically certain in every case because Nature intended every person to have perfect health in every way, and "a beautiful complexion" is only a popular way of saying that the skin of one's face is in a perfectly healthy condition.

The countless millions of pores, covering the entire body, are continually discharging waste matter. This is noticeable when one perspires, but it is true all the time, even when the skin appears to be perfectly dry

The pores must be kept open. Those of the face cannot be kept open with soap. When neglected they close and form "blackheads."

Plexo Cleansing Cream is the one preparation that will open closed pores and then, if used regularly, keep them all open all the time.

Plexo Greaseless Cream is the one preparation that will properly protect your skin when you are out in the dust and wind.

Thrilling Scenes on Chinese River—The Villain Takes to the Water Like a Duck

WE ESCAPE DESMOND, LET'S JUMP TO THAT CHINESE JUNK BELOW!
HALT CLAUDE, I WANT YOUR GAL!
THEY ARE CAUGHT
OH! RIVER PIRATES
YOUR CRIES CANNOT BE HEARD WITH THE NOISE OF THIS HEAVY RIVER TRAFFIC!
TOOT
HELP, HELP! I DEFY YOU AND YOUR PIRATE CREW, DESMOND YOU VILLAIN!
HELP, HELP! I DEFY YOU AND YOUR PIRATE CREW, DESMOND YOU VILLAIN!
THIS NEW DICTAGRAPH MAGNIFY ALL SOUND ON THE RIVER. WE MUST CATCH ALL PIRATE BOATS WHAT I HEAR?
SAVED! HERE COME THE REPUBLICAN RIVER PATROL SAILORS!
CURSES I'M FOILED BY THE PATROL, HOW DID THEY HEAR CLAUDE'S CRIES?
CLAUDE, I LOVE ONLY YOU. I HATE THE CUR DESMOND
NOW, MR. DESMOND SURRENDER OR DIE!
CURSES! I MUST REACH THE SHORE FIRST. SHE MUST BE MINE YET.
HERSHFIELD

I.—A LEAP FOR LIFE.

Claude and his beloved Rosamond are fleeing from the wrath of the unscrupulous Desmond, who has sworn to capture Rosamond and make her his wife. As the lovers run along the bridge, Claude sees that their only hope of escape is to jump to one of the Chinese junks in the river below. Accordingly, he and Rosamond bravely take the leap for life.

II.—AMONG THE PIRATES.

"Look before you leap" is an old saw. In this case the wisdom of it is proved again, for had Claude looked more carefully at the junk he would have risked capture by Desmond rather than land aboard it. The junk is manned by river pirates of the most cruel and bloodthirsty description, and sad indeed is the lot of the lovers.

III.—DESMOND ARRIVES.

Needless to say, Desmond, the great international crook, has friends and allies even among the scum of the Chinese river. Accordingly the villain makes haste to leap aboard the pirate junk, where he is recognized as leader. He captures Claude, whose cries for help he expects to be drowned by the noise of all the river craft.

IV.—LISTEN!

Up the river the Chinese patrol boat is waiting emergency calls. To help the captain hear appeals for help a dictagraph has been placed aboard, and thus when Clude cries out the sound is clearly heard aboard the patrol boat and instantly all speed is put on to reach the scene of the pirates' last act of outrage.

V.—OVERBOARD!

Desmond is quick to realize that the odds are against him. He is not the one to wage a battle unless he thinks that he is going to win, and as soon as the patrol boat is sighted he abandons the fight as hopeless and plunges into the river. Usually the crook is brave only when he is winning; when losing he will rarely stick.

VI.—IN THE WATER.

"I'm the boy," cries Desperate Desmond, "but I wish I was a duck." The scoundrel is now swimming in the Chinese river, pursued by Claude and the Chinese authorities. There seems but little chance of his escape this time, but the villain has so often won out that one cannot be too sure. Tomorrow we show the race.

TO-DAY'S STOCK MARKETS; FINANCIAL NEWS

DULL DAY IN STOCK MARKETS

W. H. ROSS

By W. H. ROSS.

STATE STREET, April 3.—Midday.—The break in the price of metal in London to-day had a depressing effect upon copper shares in the Boston market, which began with an easier tone. Among the issues to sell lower at the opening were Mayflower, Old Colony, Calumet & Arizona and North Butte. Within a half hour the tone improved a little, but there was no price uptura.

Before noon Calumet & Hecla had reached 5 points, while Superior-Boston, Range, East Butte and Old Dominion had sold off fractionally. Butte Superior went up ⅛. Trading was moderate in extent and orders were well distributed, but did not average large.

The New York market was inclined to be unsteady and was rather quiet without marked changes in the general list.

Canadian Pacific Goes Higher.

The strength of Canadian Pacific in the London market provided it with strong support in New York at the start today, where it made the greatest gain in the list at the getaway. It opened at 241, or 2¼ above yesterday's closing price. It went of ½ a point, however, almost immediately on heavy selling inspired by profit taking.

The roads which transport hard coal eased off a little at the opening. First quotations for Erie and Lehigh Valley were unchanged, but initial sales sent them down fractionally. Reading declined 1¼ to 162¼. Steel common started ⅛ lower and in fifteen minutes had receded ½, going down to 68¼. Pennsylvania and Missouri Pacific were unchanged. Smelting, after opening unchanged, lost ½, while Amalgamated declined ⅝. Baltimore & Ohio and Union Pacific each gained ⅛, while Southern Pacific lost the same amount.

The curb was steady.

American railway shares were steady in London without any marked price changes, but there was a sharp spurt in Canadian Pacific, while Grand Trunk showed firmness because of good earnings. The British government has decided not to apply any part of the £6,500,000 budget surplus to the sinking fund for the redemption of consols, and this caused a slump in the latter securities.

Copper Metal Slumps in London.

The price of copper metal took a slump in London at the opening today, spot selling at £69, off £1 12s.6d., while futures at £69 18s. 9d. were £1 11s. 3d. lower. There was a weak tone to the market. Rio Tintos reacted ½ to 77½. The latter quotation is ¾ below the highest price attained by these shares during the recent upward movement.

Sixteen cents is the price which sellers got for electrolytic yesterday and most of the sales were upon European account and made for July delivery. There was not much demand for the metal in this country and there is little question but the most American users have ordered all they want for the next three months. They bought heavily under the present current price, expecting copper to go still higher. Lake copper has not been in much demand. Casting copper, however, has been extensively sold at 15⅞ cents.

Buying of copper shares has largely increased in the New York, Boston and London markets, but there is no disposition on the part of the public to indulge in wild speculation in these securities. In fact, the public is showing a great deal of conservatism. If a speculative craze should set in it would be taken immediate advantage of by a class of promoters who are always lying in wait to sell small pieces of paper at extraordinary values. Lots of copper has been located and furnished the basis for incorporating which cannot be marketed even at 16 cents a pound with profit. There are a large number of copper mines where the cost of getting the metal to the surface and then to market is so great that there is little money to be made out of business, no matter what the market price for the product may happen to be. Production facilities are being increased so fast that the demand will not be able to get a very long way ahead of the demand.

There are more wild copper stock tips being circulated on Wall street than on State street, today. The Boston public has taken a long copper stocks course in the school of experience, where tuition is always costly, and will have to be shown something for something. Among the current rumors about [illegible] is to the effect that there is a big short interest in Amalgamated and some folks are in a position where they may be badly squeezed. Another about American Smelting is that the dividend rate will be raised to 6 per cent. before ponds begin to freeze. It is also rumored that liquidation on a big scale from an unknown source in Utah Copper has been met by just as persistent absorption. The attempt to depress the stock, if as aggressive as is stated, has not been effective. Anaconda was quite active in the New York market yesterday, the sales totaling 14,900 shares. There is not much talk about manipulation in copper shares, but many traders are much in doubt as to what the leadership intends to do.

The Outlook in Steel Circles.

Steel stock is being affected by the impression that the United States Steel Corporation is about to report a heavy decrease in orders when it issues a statement next week. One answer to this is that the corporation is now declining to handle business which does not show a reasonable profit, and that it has enough orders on hand, or, what is very important, in sight, to keep its plants going for many months at very near full capacity. It is said that Steel stock was largely bought yesterday by houses or persons who are believed to be very close to those on the inside with regard to the corporation's affairs.

There is very little question but that the improvement in steel manufacturing has been marked and those in the trade are very optimistic. The disposition shown to extend plants is significant. When prices for steel products advance, and those engaged in making them are confident that they will, although perhaps not until after the Presidential election, there will be an increase in profits which helps the situation a lot. Considering the state of general business for several years past, and low prices for finished steel of all kinds, it is remarkable that highly capitalized corporations engaged in it should have been able to weather the stress of circumstances as well as they have done. Continental Europe is said to be buying Steel Common on an extensive scale. Persons as far removed as that have the advantage of a long perspective.

Vessel Charters Costing More.

A sign that the export trade of this country is increasing is found in the rise in the cost of chartering steamships. It costs from 200 to 300 per cent. more to get one now than it did two years ago. The coal strike in the British Isles has helped create this situation. It is estimated that the fleet tied up in Europe because fuel cannot be obtained to send it to sea number at least 200 vessels. Not only is it hard for American shippers to get the cargo carriers they need, but the demand for tonnage is world wide. D. H. E. Elwell, general manager of the New York agency of the Fabre line, says:

"This year there seems to have been a universal wave of prosperity that has struck us all at the same time. Everybody wants steamers and there are not enough to go round. Freight rates have necessarily gone up, because the cost of charter has gone up. Now, to make matters worse, we have the coal strike to face, and that means a further loss."

Financial News in Brief.

The Erie road has been authorized in New York to issue three-year 5 per cent. collateral gold notes to the amount of $10,000,000. The money will be used for double tracking between Marion, O., and North Judson, Ind., at the estimated cost of $6,000,000, and for grade crossing eliminations and other improvements.

Orders for structural steel received by steel companies from builders, contractors and others in March totalled 90,000 tons. Orders of this kind placed since the first of the year amount to 250,000 tons. This indicates that building is to be conducted on an increased scale in 1912.

When Missouri, Kansas & Texas road stockholders meet on Thursday next they will re-elect the present directorate, with the exception of President A. A. Allen, who has resigned his office with the company. He is general manager as well as a director. He will be succeeded as president and in the directorate by Charles E. Schaff, formerly vice-president of New York Central lines west of Buffalo.

Two things which helped the stock market yesterday were an improvement in railroad earnings and the fact that the United States Supreme Court did not hand down a decision in the Coal Trust case. Missouri Pacific reported an increase for February in net earnings of $664,081, and the New York Central lines an increase in net operating income for February of $1,050,000.

Rail orders by railroads for the first quarter of this year were much heavier than in 1911 and show that transportation lines are preparing for more business. Since January 1 the orders aggregate 977,000 tons. Cars ordered in the same period total 32,000, while builders have received orders for 805 locomotives.

Turner, Tucker & Co., bankers, at No. 24 Milk street, Boston, have issued for April a special stock, bank and trust company circular which will be found interesting and instructive to investors.

Wall Street heard again yesterday the rumor that President George F. Baer of the Reading road will retire from that office and become chairman of the company. The latest rumor fixes the date of his retirement as June 30 next. Wall Street thinks that Reading would cut a "melon" but for his views regarding the distribution of earnings.

Bradstreet's compilations state that during January, February and March of this year there were 4,000 failures in the United States. This poor showing has been exceeded for a similar period only four times in the past thirty-one years. Compared with the first quarter of 1911, the increase was 14 per cent.

Copper Mining Notes.

The Douglas smelter of Phelps, Dodge & Co. produced 9,043,832 pounds of copper in March. The Copper Queen mine yielded 6,235,209 pounds, and Moctezuma 2,446,731, while custom ores amounted to 961,021. Detroit works returns as yet to be reported.

The March output of the Shannon property was 1,388,000 pounds, an increase of 88,000 compared with February.

After crediting lead earnings, Utah Consolidated cost of copper production last year was about 8 cents a pound, or four cents less than in 1910. The Utah Consolidated 1911 output was 9,162,023 of copper and 3,411,939 of lead.

The reorganized La France Copper Company will be known as the Lexington Mines Company. The capitalization is $1,000,000.

Thompson, Towle & Co. say they believe there is a large short interest in Amalgamated. They also state: "There has been a steady and persistent absorption of Utah Copper stock, but this absorption has had to meet extensive liquidation from an unknown source. One broker has sold 5,000 shares at every ¼-point advance ever since the stock crossed 58."

Poverty—the Great Curse

Remember That the Dollar You Spend So Quickly Today, and the Other Dollar Tomorrow, and the Day After, Might Mean Later Independent Manhood, Power to Control Your Own Time, Direct Your Own Career.

Copyright, 1912, by American-Journal-Examiner.

Young men and old men, fight poverty as you would fight slavery if it still existed among us. Ask the old around you, and they will tell you that poverty is the great, widespread curse.

Not wealth is necessary to happiness, but freedom from the poverty that grinds, poverty that worries, poverty that makes a man the slave of any man that has a dollar—THAT is necessary to happiness.

You have seen pictures of the slave-traders rushing through the African forests and the poor blacks fleeing before them in terror.

What the slave-catcher was to the black man on the Gold Coast in the old days of slave-ships poverty is to you today.

Keep out of poverty—keep out of debt.

Remember that the dollar you spend so quickly today, and the other dollar tomorrow, and the day after, might mean later independent manhood, power to control your own time, direct your own career.

Money enough—though it be but ten cents a day more than you spend—means freedom, independence, the right to look any man in the eye as his equal.

And poverty, debt, the spending of ever so little more than you actually have, means slavery now, anxiety, humiliation in the future.

Poverty deprives children of education—and so it means ignorance.

Poverty deprives children of care and good food—and so it means disease.

Poverty takes away men's courage, drives them to despair, makes them seek relief wherever it can be found—and so poverty means drunkenness.

Wherever you find men miserable, poor and underpaid you will find ignorance and drunkenness.

Whenever you better conditions and lift the weight of poverty, drunkenness and ignorance diminish.

Whatever your age, or habits, or condition, there is one of two things that you can do—you can better yourself or you can make things worse.

If you are a young man or woman starting out in life, or one young enough to have many good years ahead of you, it is absolutely in your power to make your life dignified, independent and satisfied.

However old you may be, or discouraged, it isn't too late to fight against the curse that weighs on millions of men, the curse of present poverty, and that other curse, almost as great, the dread of poverty in the future.

It is in your power to be free if you will do it. Spend less than you make, and you will find that spending less means, in almost every case, earning more.

If a man puts into learning and thinking the hours and the vitality formerly devoted to frivolous spending he will soon find his power to earn increased.

You must remember, however, that if the majority of men are worried, hard up, living along from day to day, it is because going in debt is very easy and keeping out of it is difficult.

Every day the temptation comes to spend this and to spend that.

On a certain day everybody must have a new hat, and he gets it—he thinks he must spend as much as anybody else does. There goes one chance of saving.

Each man thinks that he must dress as well as somebody else does.

And a million young fools think that they must take a drink when it is offered to them—and also that they must buy a drink in their turn, which is idiotic.

And tens of thousands of married men are kept poor because they imagine that they must do as well as somebody else does—and too often their wives help them to keep poor.

Try to bear in mind that a few years from now it won't make much difference to you whether you got a new hat on April 3, 1912, or not—but it will make a very big difference at that time whether you have a few thousand dollars saved up or a few dozen men trying to collect bills from you.

Remember that when you are well off, when you can say truly that you owe no man a dollar, people always like the way you look. They find no fault with your dressing.

Remember that all the varnish, all the fine clothing, new hats, new shoes, can't do you a bit of good when you and everybody else know that you can't afford those things.

It isn't easy to save and be independent. If it were everyone would be prosperous and independent. But it is possible to keep poverty away.

It is possible to be a free man, afraid of no one, controlled and bossed by nobody.

Many a man will see this article today who, if he could see it again twenty years from now, would wish with bitterness of heart that he had paid attention to it and realized that it was intended for him.

Few live happy, independent, free from the control of other men—and a great majority live with hands of poverty always above them, in fear of the future, pinched and anxious in the present.

But you can be free if you will. It is in your power to say to yourself: "I may not be rich, but I will never be poor. I'll earn all that I can in the present, and I'll save so much of every dollar for the days that are to come."

You would have a very poor opinion of the savage on the Gold Coast if you found him, when the slave drivers were abroad, thinking of anything except escape from those slave hunters.

Yet we are all of us here with the slave hunters of the future abroad among us.

And ninety-nine out of a hundred know what poverty means, but ignore the knowledge.

They know perfectly well that if they cannot save and begin to get ahead today there is no earthly reason why they should hope to do that at a later day—yet they ignore that knowledge.

Chums!

By HAL COFFMAN

Hand in hand through the woods they go,
The father and little lad;
Happy are all the youngsters who know
That a boy's best chum is his dad.

Hand in hand through the world they go,
Sharing each other's joy;
Happy are all the fathers who know
That a man's best chum is his boy.

—ON—

Condemnation of an Erring Girl and Judging Wrong by Two Codes.

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

Copyright, 1912, by American-Journal-Examiner

YOU tell me that you are the mother of young daughters, and that your young relative, still in her teens, has disgraced the family name.

You tell me that you warned her and tried to advise her, but she would not listen.

And now she is disgraced forever in the eyes of the world, and you feel you are doing right in keeping yourself aloof from her.

"She has made her bed; let her lie in it. She has had her own way in defiance of wise counsel; let her accept the consequences."

And so you intend to rear your little daughters to shun and avoid your kin; and in all this you feel justified, through some strange method of reasoning.

To my thinking the call of the blood and the call of the soul should prevent you from taking such a stand.

The unfortunate girl who has disgraced her name needs you now more than ever in her life. It is your hour to stand forth and prove yourself worthy of the title of good wife and good mother and good woman, which you claim are yours by right of your own behavior.

The Divine goodness of Christ never shone forth more fully than when He said to the unfortunate woman, "Go and sin no more; your sins are forgiven you." And again when He said, "Let him that is without sin cast the first stone."

If you saw a foolish, vain girl walking along a precipice and you warned her, and she laughed at your warning, and presently she fell over the edge and lay at the bottom, wounded and bleeding, would you walk on and leave her there, saying, "Well, I told you to be careful"? That would be no more inhuman that what you are doing.

How can an unfortunate girl rise—how can she try to climb to higher ground if no good woman of clean life and secure position is ready to reach her a hand and speak a word of encouragement?

And now ask yourself, and demand a true answer:

WOULD YOU TAKE THIS HIGH AND MIGHTY STAND OF OUTRAGED RESPECTABILITY IF THE UNFORTUNATE ONE WERE YOUR OWN BROTHER, OR MALE COUSIN?

Of course you would not.

You would permit him the freedom of your home; you would let him sit at your table with your young daughters, and you would say it was all youthful folly and the indiscretion of boys, and that he would outgrow it, and in every way possible you would make light of the matter.

Now there was a long era when the separate standard of morals for the two sexes was accepted by all good people.

"Boys will be boys" was the extreme of criticism passed on a fallen boy, but any girl who lost her reputation was shunned and shut from all respectable circles save the back pews of a church, where she must go veiled, and the only doors open to her were those of the convent, the Magdalene Home or the tomb.

She could find no occupation other than that of a Sister of Charity.

But the world has changed mightily.

Less regard is felt for sinning men and a wider sympathy is shown sinning women.

It is beginning to be understood that a woman who has made a misstep in her ignorant youth may grow into noble womanhood and be a useful member of society, and may make a worthy wife and mother.

Just as men who have sowed their wild oats become good citizens and heads of families.

Your own position in this matter is very narrow, very cold-blooded, very cowardly and very old-fashioned.

If you want to keep in step with the great altruistic, philosophical, humanitarian spirit of the day, you will go to this foolish girl, suffering the full penalty of her folly, and you will say: "Let me be your friend. Let me help you to rise into a purer and clearer atmosphere.

"I am anchored in a safe home. I have a good husband and dear children.

"I owe it to God, who has so blest me, that I befriend and help every less fortunate woman to such extent as lies in my power.

"There is hope for you yet. You have learned your bitter lesson. Now let me help you to live down your trouble.

"Let my love and sympathy be a strength to you to make a new record."

Then you can talk to your little girls and make them understand that their relative has taken a false step; that she is unfortunate and has been grievously wounded, and that she needs tender pity.

You will sweeten and broaden their natures by this method, and at the same time save them from ever falling over the same precipice.

It is, indeed, a dangerous attitude of mind for the mother of children to be exceedingly critical and unforgiving toward other people's children.

Be careful.

Life teaches hard lessons sometimes to the severe judges of the erring.

Democrats of the State Should Not Let Discord Arise Over a Mere Technicality

It is most unfortunate that at a time when advantage may be taken of a schism in the Republican party that leaves a cleft to its very vitals, and when the Democrats in the Legislature are keeping party faith without one Judas in their ranks; it is deplorable, we repeat, that at such an advantageous moment as this, discord should arise over what seems a mere technical difference of party method.

The Hon. George Fred Williams does not agree with the rest of his colleagues that it was proper for the State Committee to suggest a list to the voters as candidates for delegates to the coming National convention.

He agrees, however, that the MOTIVE of the State Committee in making the suggestion was good and that it did NOT have for its object ANY ATTEMPT AT MACHINE DOMINATION OF THE PARTY. This is true. The object of the State Committee was to avoid confusion which might follow the operation, for the first time, of a new method.

When new methods are applied in politics the more highly organized communities nearly always have the better of the situation at first. Party leadership means more in these communities and the leaders are more actively in touch with their followers, instructing them in the new way; learning themselves and pointing out to the others its pitfalls and advantages.

Under these circumstances it was apprehended that Boston and the metropolitan district might in the primaries elect all the delegates at large, leaving the rest of the State without representation. It was felt also that it might be unrepresentative in other important respects.

Fearing these things, the State Committee sought to avoid them as far as possible this year by suggesting a well-balanced ticket as a guide to the voters.

There was absolutely nothing binding in the nature of the State Committee's action. It was a mere suggestion, of weight only with those who have confidence in the State Committee; and, indeed, it is doubtful if voters are not entitled to the benefit of the advice of party organization, if they want it.

So far the controversy has been conducted upon the highest plane of courtesy and has done no harm to the party. The difference between Mr. Williams and his party associates on this question is largely a difference in the bent of their minds.

The more practical men appreciate that the first trial of the new primary law presents a condition and not a theory. Mr. Williams, whose intellectual tendency is rather of the statesman than of the organizer who makes the statesman possible, sees only the theory and clings devoutly to it.

Under these circumstances, each side of the controversy can easily respect the motives of the other side and let the people settle the question between them without ill feeling.

The Vine That Clings

By EUGENE G. HAINES

NEAR a garden walk, which was kept with care,
In the grounds of a palace, great and fair,
A vine came up on a sunny day,
And the gardener, chancing to pass that way,
Observed the vine, with its tendrils small,
And trained it to grow toward the palace wall.

So the vine stretched out toward the marble fair
And grew, in the warmth of the Summer air,
And sought on the surface of marble cold
A place that its tendrils might grasp and hold;
But little assistance the marble lent,
No matter whither the tendrils went.

And the stormy winds of the early Fall
Beat down on the vine, on the marble wall;
And the smooth white surface was chill and cold,
And gave no place for the vine to hold;
So, at last, the vine to the marble clung
By a single tendril, from which it hung.

Bruised and broken by wind and storm,
The weak vine longed for a surface warm,
And a branch of an oak tree growing nigh
Caught the swinging vine as it drifted by,
And the storm and the oak tree, stanch and tall,
Broke the one last tendril from the wall.

The oak was seamed and bent and marred,
And its trunk had been by the lightning scarred;
But the vine found warmth 'neath its ragged bark,
And its strength was shown by the lightning's mark;
So it clung to the oak, though by tempest tossed,
And bade defiance to storm and frost.

And the vine grew out on the rugged oak,
And covered its scars with a verdant cloak
'Till scarcely a vestige of scar was seen,
And the tree was covered with brilliant green,
For its rough warm bark let it grow and twine
'Till the tree was cloaked by the growing vine.

To you who read: Is the message clear?
Oh, heart of marble and mind austere,
Take heed, lest the vine find your surface cold,
And the tendrils, one by one, lose hold,
And find that an oak with heart more warm
Is a better refuge from cold and storm.

LETTERS FROM AMERICAN READERS

"WHY NOT HALF AND QUARTER-CENT COINS?"

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

Every other nation on the globe has a smaller coin in circulation than our own. Our smallest coin being one cent, the poor are compelled to pay in excess for many of their purchases. For instance, when butter sells at 25 cents the pound, and one can afford only one-quarter pound, he must pay seven cents for it, or at the rate of 28 cents per pound. And so there are any number of instances occurring daily when the poor pay in excess of the market price simply because the cent cannot be divided.

And is it not a fact that the business men take advantage of this condition and mark their goods so that they cannot be sold by dividing the yard or pound without entailing a loss upon the purchaser?

For the benefit of the small purchaser, would it not be a good thing to have one-half and one-quarter-cent coins?

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

I am very much interested in your country newspaper editors. The editors of country papers ought to be inspired by your editorials to unite for effective work along the lines you suggest. They could do an immense amount of good.
